State Plans Half Million For Roads In Orange County

THIS AMOUNT INCLUDED IN HUGE BUDGET

Large Slice of State Highway Money Included By Governor In His Message

TWO YEAR PROGRAM

Plan Provides for 11 Miles Of New Paving Between Newport and Seal Beach

ORANGE COUNTY was given a large slice of state highway money in Governor C. C. Young's road program, included in his budget, and presented today to the state legislature. Roads in this county will receive or participate in joint funds totalling $1,682,349.71. For Orange county alone the sum of $425,000 was allotted. The program provided for this county participating in $1,086,349.71 listed as a co-operative fund for this section and three other counties, San Diego, Los Angeles and Ventura. The project is designated as including routes two, nine and 60. A further sum of $171,000 is provided for these four counties on routes two and four. This money is set aside for 85 miles of oil rock border.

Of the $100,000,000 to be set aside for the next two years' state program, $55,000,000 will be spent directly by the state on new roads and in improving present ones. In the latter amount are included the paving of 11 miles between Newport Beach and Seal Beach at an estimated cost of $300,000. Grading and paving of one-half mile of the highway north of Serra was included at a cost of $40,000. One mile of paving near Galivitas is scheduled in the program at a probable cost of $50,000. Drainage along the Serra bluffs is provided for at an estimated cost of $35,000.

The co-operative project in Orange, Los Angeles, San Diego and Ventura counties is the largest single item in the program and provides for grading, paving, bridges and grade separations on the three routes, Nos. 2, 9 and 60.

Further participation in state funds is expected for Orange county in the future. After the $55,000,000 is allotted the remainder of the $100,000,000 will go to the several counties in the form of state

Survey Of Road To Boulder Dam Site Begins Soon

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Survey of a road to the site of the Boulder Canyon dam will be undertaken as soon as a crew of men can be assembled in the mountains, it was announced today by Road Supervisor Harris.

The survey will be used to secure data for the state legislature with a view of securing state and federal aid for the road.

The proposed route will connect with the Las Vegas road near Black Canyon dam site. A plan is under way to construct a ferry to connect the roads, it was stated.

BATTLE OVER KELLOGG PACT STILL RAGING

Senator Bruce of Maryland Tells Senate Treaty Is "Lunatic's Dream"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Continuing the reservationists' attack upon the Kellogg anti-war treaty, Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, today told the senate "it is worse than a pompous gesture because it lulls our people into a false sense of security."

"The treaty seeks to develop the idea that peace can be secured by wearing white robes and crying excessively Peace, peace, perfect peace," said Bruce. "In the words of Theodore Roosevelt: 'What lunatic dreams!'"

Bruce charged the document sought to "substitute mere paper professions and promises for an adequate military and naval defense."

Despite these objections Bruce said he would vote for the treaty because he believed "with the English statesmen and other statesmen that it will draw this country into the only two institutions which hold any solemn promise of world peace—the world court and the league of nations."

"Some countries never would have signed this treaty," he said, "if they had not believed it marked a distinct and definite milestone toward the court and the league."

Further participation in state funds is expected for Orange county in the future. After the $55,000,000 is allotted the remainder of the $100,000,000 will go to the several counties in the form of state

FAIR WEATHER FOR FAR WESTERN AREA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—With no fresh disturbances in sight, the outlook was for generally fair weather in the far western states, the weather bureau forecast today.

It will be continued cold, the prediction said, but with no marked changes in temperature. Ground fogs are expected to prevail over a large section of Washington, Oregon and northern California.

Following the breakfast Borah told the United Press they discussed "the general situation regarding legislation" but any details must come from Mr. Hoover.

S. F. MAN MAY BE NAMED BY HOOVER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—That Robert A. Roos, San Francisco business man, is being considered by President-elect Hoover for assistant secretary of war, was the rumor circulated here today.

Roos said he had heard nothing officially in the matter. He holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the reserve corps and served during the World war.

Idaho Solon Tells President-Elect That Extra Session Inevitable

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—President-elect Hoover today was informed by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, that the senate will pass its regular program with the adoption of the Kellogg pact and the navy cruiser bill without difficulty.

Beyond this, Watson and Hale said their visit was confined to paying their respects to the president-elect and discussion of Mr. Hoover's South American tour.

Mr. Hoover inaugurated the system of breakfast conferences today by inviting Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, to breakfast with him.

Following the breakfast Borah told the United Press they discussed "the general situation regarding legislation" but any details must come from Mr. Hoover.

1ST NATIONAL BANK REPORTS GREAT GROWTH

All Members of Board Are Re-elected at Annual Meeting Today

THE GREATEST growth in deposits for any twelve months of the 42 years the First National bank has been giving service to this community was reflected in the annual statement submitted to the stockholders of the bank at the annual meeting held at 9 a. m., today.

The report was submitted by Cashier W. B. Williams, and was received with considerable enthusiasm by the men and women of the community who hold this security.

Deposits were $11,398,275.48 on the day the annual report closed, the total being $1,500,000 in excess of the deposits reported at the previous annual meeting, according to the cashier. A portion of the gain is attributed to the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank, the savings department of the First National. The gain in deposits by the latter organization was $212,463.82.

Williams pointed out that the gain in deposits over the previous year was made in face of the fact that the record on this date a year ago carried approximately $1,000,000 of Fruit Exchange money that had not been distributed at the time but which had been distributed before the close of this fiscal year for the financial institution.

The tremendous increase in deposits of this strictly local institution is just one of the straws that pointedly emphasize the prosperity of this section during the past twelve months.

The surplus and undivided profits account reveals a total of $361,002.69, nearly half of the capital stock of the bank. In this respect the savings bank even exceeds its parent organization, for the surplus totals to the cent the capital stock, while there is an undivided profit account of $62,368.55.

The combined deposits of the two banks, is $14,782,717.03—a more than creditable showing for a city of the size of Santa Ana, according to bankers. The resources of the two institutions total $16,536,442.74.

Williams emphasized the liquid

POLICE SAVE YOUTH FROM DEATH BY GAS

BERKELEY, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Jimmy Wood, 18, didn't see any use in living longer when his father denied his plea for permission to become an aviator, so he decided to end it all.

Jimmy made the mistake, however, of first calling Berkeley police and telling them of his plan. The police arrived at Jimmy's home in time to save his life. They found him in the kitchen unconscious, and three unlighted gas burners in a stove were turned on.

Schumacher Is Nominated But Refuses Post

Present Chairman Declares He Wants to Pass Honor To Other Members

WILLARD SMITH, of Orange, today was elected unanimously as chairman of the Orange county board of supervisors when the group met at its Tuesday session for reorganization. While those in touch with the situation had been expecting to see William Schumacher, former chairman, remain in his position, Schumacher, himself, injected a bit of drama into the opening of the session when he declined nomination for the office.

County Clerk J. M. Backs called the meeting to order and announced that nominations were open. Smith immediately placed the name of Schumacher before the board. C. H. Chapman, newly elected member from Santa Ana, seconded the nomination. Before Backs had time to place the motion, Schumacher quietly told the group that, although he deeply appreciated the honor extended to him by the nomination, he felt that a policy should be started "herby the honor would be passed on."

"In view of that fact I move that the name of Willard Smith be placed in nomination," Schumacher said. George Jeffrey, supervisor from the fifth district, seconded the nomination and Smith was elected unanimously.

After taking the chair, Smith announced that selection of 16 appointive officers and employees, with the naming of committees, would be announced in the afternoon session.

"I sincerely appreciate the honor extended to me and to the fourth district," Smith said as he took the chair. "I particularly wish to thank William Schumacher. He gave up a position he could have had if he

KING'S CONDITION BELIEVED IMPROVED

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The improvement of King George has progressed to the stage where his physicians are omitting bulletins. In the absence of an official bulletin this morning, it was learned from authoritative sources that King George spent a good night and that his condition was unchanged.

Although the bulletins usually follow the same stereotyped form, lack of a bulletin a day was interpreted as a sign that the king's condition was considered generally satisfactory and no alarm was anticipated.

Last night's bulletin issued at 7:45 p. m., said: "The king had a quiet day. There is no change to report in his condition. The next bulletin will be issued Tuesday evening."

It was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn, regular physicians to his majesty.

NEW GOVERNOR OF ARIZONA IN OFFICE

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 8.—(UP)—A Republican governor reigned over Arizona today for the second time since the state became a member of the United States in 1912.

John C. Phillips, who was swept into office in the Republican presidential landslide last November, took up his new duties after being sworn into office at the state capitol yesterday.

In an inaugural address delivered from the capitol balcony, the new executive issued a warning note of conservation to business and its government, denounced graft, urged rigid governmental economy and made a plea for more active interest in the affairs of the government on the part of the people.

$244,075,305 NEEDED TO RUN STATE GOVERNMENT FOR NEXT TWO YEARS, GOV. YOUNG SAYS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Governor Young today submitted his biennial budget to the state legislature, calling for a total of $244,075,305.97 to run the state government the next two years. The new budget represents an increase of 12.28 per cent over the 1927-28 budget, which totaled $217,387,220.81.

The governor also reported an increase in the state's surplus during his two year term of office, estimating that the total surplus next June would be approximately $29,302,000.

An unusual departure in budget making was presented this year for the first time, that of segregating the budget into three parts. These were the general budget, totaling $58,746,164.61; the educational budget $78,931,091.36, and the highway budget, $106,432,790.

"This segregation is made," he explained, "in order that special study may be given to each of these three major functional expenditures of the state."

Of the total budget, "only $66,343,222, or 27.22 percent, come under the direct control of the governor. The other 72.78 percent, or $177,752,784, is made up of fixed charges, or items which have been appropriated in recurrent amounts by the legislature, and expenditures definitely fixed by vote of the people."

The percentage of increase of the total budget, the governor pointed out, is lower than for any period since the budget law was enacted. It also shows a lower per capita cost of government, as the increase is less than the increase in California's population.

Among the permanent improvements granted were the following: State fair, $210,000; national guard $227,000; state parks $35,480; Folsom state prison $280,000; San Quentin $380,000; rivers, harbors and bridges $385,000; Andrews state hospital $450,000; Mendocino state hospital $375,000; Napa state hospital $60,000; Norwalk state hospital $582,000; Patton state hospital $195,000; Stockton state hospital $223,000; Sonoma state home $196,500; Pacific Colony $300,000; Preston school of industry $155,000; Ventura school for girls $10,900; Whittier state school $252,760; state narcotic hospital $105,000; industrial home for blind $26,035; state teachers colleges—Chico $130,768; Fresno $171,450; Humboldt $96,000; San Diego $375,000; California polytechnic school $140,000; state schools for deaf and blind $79,000; and University of California $851,000.

The total budget of all permanent improvements in the state for the two years period was $7,543,025.42.

Road Work
Fifty-five million dollars will be spent by the state of California on its highway system during the next two years, Governor Young told the state's solons.

This will be the greatest biennial highway building program in the state's history, and is made possible by the tax on gasoline, the governor said. The money will be divided on the "50-50" basis between northern and southern California under terms of the Breed bill.

The budget included funds for maintenance, new construction, re-

LEGISLATURE MAKES QUICK MOVE TODAY

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The California state legislature unanimously ratified the seven state Colorado river compact today within 15 minutes after the opening of the session.

The bill was introduced simultaneously in the senate by Senator Ralph D. Swing of San Bernardino and in the assembly by Assemblyman Myron D. Witter of Brawley.

Upon motion the measure was adopted without reference to committee.

"California has already assured the other six states that it would ratify this compact upon the adoption by congress and signature by the president of the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill," explained Senator Swing. "It is a suggestion of President-elect Hoover that the compact shall be ratified by the several states and therefore I am introducing the bill as the first to be presented to the 1929 legislature."

The measure was adopted only upon suspension of the constitution, and was the first official act of the 43rd session of the state legislature.

Bills by the hundreds, prepared this summer and pre-printed by the state, were the legislators' answer to Governor Young's plea for early legislation. A grand rush to the desks is expected when the signal is sounded.

Among these measures is the "home rule for counties" bill, to be presented by assemblyman Charles H. Deuel, Chico, editor. This proposal which had the endorsement of Governor Young in his biennial message to the legislature, would be a constitutional amendment, requiring ratification by the people at the 1930 election.

The measure would take from the legislature its power to fix

'LIVINGSTONE' WILL BE SHOWN TWICE FRIDAY

In connection with the showing in Polytechnic high school auditorium, on Friday night of this week, of the famous picture, "Livingstone," under auspices of the City P. T. A., those who plan to see the picture will be interested in learning that the Kinnear Picture service, of Whittier, has presented to the Santa Ana public library Basil Mathews' book, "Livingstone the Pathfinder," which is said to contain one of the best stories of the explorer's life and activities ever written.

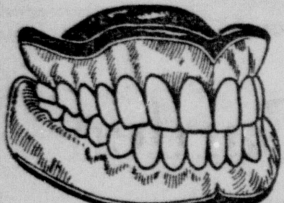

Mrs. S. I. Preble, president of the City P. T. A., today stated that there would be two showings of the picture Friday night in order to accommodate the large crowds wishing to see it. The first one will be at 7:30 and the second at 9. Friday was chosen as the day for the picture in order that school children might feel free to attend.

The story starts in the little home in Blantyre, near Glasgow, where David Livingstone's boyhood, as the child of a poor weaver, is shown. Even though that little Scottish boy had to go to work in the mills at the early age of 10 years, he kept up his studies, as the picture shows, until finally he was sent to Africa as a medical missionary.

Through the picture it will be possible to see Livingstone planning the trip in England, his arrival in Africa, his beautiful romance with Mary Moffat, who later became his wife, his struggle with wild animals as well as with natives, his last illness from fever and his rescue by Stanley, the American, and finally his last resting place—Westminster Abbey.

COCHEMS HITS PHOTOGRAPHER COUPON SALE

Asserting that the peddling of coupons at 50 cents each by photographers temporarily located in Santa Ana would do serious injury to established concerns in this city, Edward Cochems appeared before the city council last night and asked that body to adopt legislation that would make it impossible for what he termed "fly by night" photographers to come into the city and promote business by offering coupons entitling the holder to a sitting and one picture.

"When the coupon holder arrives at the studios high pressure methods are used to swell the order," said Cochems, following a declaration that distribution of the coupons affected the business of legitimate studios in the city for many years after the "clean up" campaign.

Cochems was informed that the council could do nothing to stop the selling of coupons, but that, possibly, it could prevent soliciting their sale on the streets. Cochems had declared that representatives of the coupon studios had been known to force themselves on persons stopping in front of street exhibits of Santa Ana photographers.

COUNCIL DENIES REQUEST FOR PAVING CHANGE

The old, old story of petitioners changing their minds with reference to the type of pavement wanted on streets to be paved bobbed its head at the city council meeting last night when a protest was filed to the paving of Pine street, between Cedar and Minnie, with Portland cement. The protest carried the expressed wish that the improvement be made with asphaltic concrete.

A previous petition, asking for the Portland cement improvement, carried the signatures of the owners of 89 per cent of the frontage in the two blocks and plans and specifications for the improvement were ordered some weeks ago. Last night was the date set for hearing of protests.

"Why did you order Portland cement pavement on these two blocks when pavement on the rest of West Pine street is of the black type?" asked Mrs. Shaw, a property owner and circulator of the protest.

"Because the property owners petitioned for that type of work," responded Mayor Frank L. Furton, who revealed that Mrs. Shaw herself had signed the original petition.

"Yes, I did sign the petition for Portland cement, but on the premises that more than two blocks would be paved with the possibility of a lower square foot rate," Mrs. Shaw said, in asserting that she had, of her own volition, circulated the protest against the Portland cement work because she was of the opinion that black pavement would be cheaper.

"What made you believe that a black work would cost you less?" asked the mayor.

"I have been watching bids in the papers," Mrs. Shaw responded, and she added that she had noticed an award recently on the basis of 15 cents per square foot for asphaltic work.

City Engineer Clyde Jenken advised that there is little difference in the prices, the average being 17 cents a square foot. He pointed out, however, that prices varied some, according to whether the job is small or large. A two-block job, he said, would cost more per square foot than one covering several blocks.

The mayor pointed out that the city already had been to the expense of $150 in preparing the plans and specifications and a resolution was passed ordering that work proceed under these.

Washington Wins Basketball Tiff

SEATTLE, Jan. 8.—University of Washington basketball team defeated University of North Dakota 41 to 19 in a slow, listless game here last night. The North Dakota five was obviously tired from its long barnstorming tour. The score at half time was Washington 25; North Dakota 12.

Police News

Pleading guilty to possession of liquor, Ramon Castro, of 1805 West Second street, was fined $300 in Judge J. F. Talbot's police court yesterday afternoon. Police, who raided his home, found 17 1-2 pints of whiskey and 40 bottles of beer, it was reported. Unable to pay the fine, Castro went to jail to serve one day for each $2 of the fine.

John Dunn, 37, charged with vagrancy, was arrested at Fourth and Main streets last night by Officer Sherwood. He was begging on the streets, the officer reported.

Five persons were fined $2 each in police court yesterday on charges of overtime parking. They were E. H. Cady, Robert Brown, Alfred Boudick, W. H. Dixon and C. M. Coleman.

George Galloway, 41, of 925 French street, was arrested last night by city officers on a drunk charge.

D. E. Page, Santa Ana, charged with operating a car with a cutout, in violation of the new state law, was fined $5 in police court yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. M. Hilton, Santa Ana, was fined $2 in police court yesterday on a charge of allowing the motor of her automobile to run unattended.

It is generally the custom in police court to sentence a "vag" to 30 days in the county jail and then suspend the sentence on condition that he leave the city immediately, but such was not the case with Roy Jackson. Jackson, arrested here Sunday night, told the court yesterday that he didn't know where he was going when he left Santa Ana, and, in fact, had no place to go. Judge J. F. Talbot considered for a minute and then sentenced Jackson to five days in jail, giving him time to make up his mind.

Milton T. Duenzen, 21, 517 Dorsey street, Long Beach, was arrested in Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon on a charge of possession of liquor and lodged in the county jail.

Leonard Sandoval, 34, of El Monte, charged with non-support, was released on his own recognizance yesterday by Judge H. G. Ames, following his incarceration in the county jail yesterday afternoon by Harry Carter, deputy sheriff.

PROCESS OF WINNING ONE'S OWN SOUL IS EXPLAINED IN 'WEEK OF PRAYER' ADDRESS

The Annual Union Week of Prayer opened with a largely attended and highly interesting service in the First Baptist church last night.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, president of the Ministerial association, presided and other ministers assisted in the service. Musical numbers were furnished by the choir of the Baptist church, with Dale Hamilton Evans at the organ.

The services will be held at 7:30 each evening in the First Baptist church and the community in general is invited to attend. Dr. John Gardner, pastor of the First Congregational church, in Riverside, is the speaker each night.

The first address by Dr. Gardner was based on the words, "In Your Patience Ye Shall Win Your Souls," taken from Luke 21:19.

"What does Jesus mean by such words?" inquired the speaker. "He frequently refers to a man's soul as something he may lose, or something he may have not yet possessed. Is not a man's soul, his very self, his personality? If he has not got possession of his own soul, what does it mean?"

"Living Death"
"Jesus does not think of life as we do. He thinks there is such a thing as a living death; that a man may breathe and work and play and make money, and yet be dead. If a great cause claims war or allegiance, a cause involving war or adventure of a perilous sort, and I turn from it, I may exist for years but I shall be dead all the time—dead! yes, and in hell."

"Jesus meant you may be clever enough, daring enough, strong enough to win an empire, to bring the whole world to your feet, and yet you may lose yourself, your soul, in the process. On the other hand, you may embark for a crusade that will mean your early death, yet you will live in the hour of your consecration. That is what Jesus means in the text, you will enter into life if you are a whole man, strong, healthy, keen, if you will face the hazards that come to those who are utterly given to the things of the spirit."

"There is no more important problem. Philip Cabot wrote a book entitled 'Except Ye Be Born Again.' From 20 to 40 years of age, he was an extreme individualist and materialist. He relied on his own judgment, lived in a material world, was successful in business, but neither happy nor peaceful."

Cabot Faces Issue
At 42 he fell sick and was about to die. Facing the issue, the crust of materialism crumbled. In 1922 he went to his summer camp, taking a lot of fiction and Fostick's "Meaning of Prayer." He read the novels; but one hot day grew tired of them and sheepishly picked up the book on prayer. He read it for hours. After supper he began to think—what was happening? Was he dying? Or was this conversion? After a few days of conflict he found himself living in a new world of peace, beauty and gladness such as he had never conceived.

"It is possible for the soul to decay, for its powers to be atrophied by losing its sense of reverence; by losing its sense of responsibility; by losing its care for humanity. Good people can become cruel. They can refuse to share the problems of the stranger who comes begging work and food; they can neglect the lives of those too busy with business and amusements even to inquire by telephone; they can lose their sense of right. Along all these lines church members lose their souls. If we resist these tendencies, we may win our souls. Are we able to call our souls our own?"

William Stark's Estate Is Valued At Over $10,000

The will of the late William Stark, former mayor of Anaheim, who died December 12, was filed for probate today in superior court here by Matilda Stark, widow. The petition requesting that the will be admitted for probate stated that the property left exceeds $10,000 in value.

Real estate in Long Beach and in San Bernardino county was listed, along with stocks and securities.

In addition to Mrs. Stark the list of heirs includes Leander W. Stark, of San Pedro; Eldon Stark, of Anaheim, and Elva Tedford, of Beverly Hills. The entire estate was left to Mrs. Stark in the will.

NEWPORT
NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe, of Salem, Mass., who are touring California on their honeymoon, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cordova Sloan. Mr. Monroe has just completed his 40th year with the Boston and Maine railroad.

Dr. and Mrs. Keaster, of Pasadena, lunched at the Palisades club Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lucas, of Corona Del Mar.

AUTO WRECKED AT LA HABRA CORNER
LA HABRA, Jan. 8.—Too much speed at the corner of Fullerton road and Whittier boulevard resulted in a car driven by Eddie Falconetti, Los Angeles, crashing into the yard of Mrs. Chris Allen early yesterday morning. The machine was owned by Laura Cenante. It was badly damaged but the occupants escaped with bruises.

High School Net Tournay Planned
A free-for-all tennis tournament, with lettermen only barred, will be conducted soon at Santa Ana high school by Clyde Patton, tennis and basketball coach. Coach Patton is anxious to develop talent for his tennis squad. The first practice matches of the 1929 season probably will come during February. Drawings for the tournay will be held this week and play begin immediately. Later Coach Patton plans to promote a tournament open to everyone, lettermen and all, to find the best player in school. There will be some hot competition in this, as Lecl Slayback, Grove Dolman, Elwood Lindley and Asa Herren, 1928 squad members will be defending their laurels.

It is reported that the first telephone conversation has recently taken place between Egypt and Transjordan. The line runs from Amman, in Transjordan, to Cairo, crossing Palestine and passing through thousands of miles of desert.

NEW PARKING ORDINANCE IS GIVEN READING

First reading was given an ordinance by the city council last night enlarging the two-hour zone in which automobiles may be parked. The ordinance provides for two-hour limits on Broadway, First to Third; Sycamore, First to Third; Second, Broadway to Birch, and Third, Broadway to Birch. The ordinance will be adopted at the next meeting and will become effective 30 days after its publication.

An ordinance was adopted prohibiting peddlers locating on street corners within the territory bounded by French, Ross, First and Sixth streets, all streets inclusive, except farmers and others who may deliver products to retail merchants. Operation of banana peddlers within the district also is prohibited.

Action on the matter of the closing of Pine street, between Baker and Bristol, was continued, for one week.

Accept Swales' Resignation
The resignation of L. G. Swales as a member of the planning commission was accepted, Swales explaining that his private interests require so much of his time that he cannot serve on the commission.

J. E. Livesey was given permission to install a 500-gallon gasoline tank on the southwest corner of First street and Orange avenue.

Mrs. Leonard was given an extension of 30 days in which to conform with the council order that sidewalks be built full width on Third street, between Sycamore and Birch. Mrs. Leonard said that she wished to replant trees along the side of her building and that she could not do it in less than 30 days. The trees will be replanted on her ranch southwest of Santa Ana, she said.

shv atse shet shet shetaoinn
Action was deferred for one week on the recommendation of the planning commission that George S. Prentice be denied permission to operate a garage in the building on the northeast corner of Sycamore and Second streets. The denial by the commission was made on the grounds that the building is old and a fire hazard.

Edgin Application Denied
Application of Lillie B. Edgin, of 715 South Parton street, for permission to operate a dress shop in her home was denied on recommendation of the planning commission. In denying the application the planning commission definitely defined its policy of disapproving the use of a single floor for both domestic and business purposes.

The council approved the recommendation of the planning commission that the southwest corner of Pine and Flower streets be changed to the business zone, providing buildings conform to the setback line.

The building inspector and fire chief were requested to make recommendation to the council for new boundary lines for fire district No. 1. It was pointed out that building operations within the present district since its creation, about five years ago, demand expansion of the district.

H. B. City Council Declines To Restrict Oil Drilling

445 CITIZENS OF BEACH CITY SIGN PETITIONS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 8.—Following a report by City Clerk Charles Furr on the petitions for and against the establishment of a residential and business district against oil drilling, the city council last night voted to lay the matter on the table.

There were 233 signatures against restrictions and 152 for a district. In taking this action, Mayor S. R. Bowen issued the following statement:

"It would appear from the petition which has been filed in this matter of creating a residential zone restricted against oil drilling that the opposition thereto is sufficient to cause the board of trustees to ask that the proponents of such actions circulate and file an initiative petition asking the board of trustees to enact such an ordinance.

"This conclusion does not lessen my firm belief that the firm interests of the larger number of our people would be served by creating a restricted residential zone in which all well drilling would not be permitted, provided that such a zone for the present embraced only that part of the town in which is densely built up in a residential way. It is evident from the recommendations which we have received from the chamber of commerce and the Business Men's association that this is also the sentiment of a large number of our business people.

"Nevertheless, the analysis which has been made of the petitions recently filed seems to warrant the conclusion above stated and I feel it is up to those of our people who see this matter more clearly and less personally to undertake the task of having a larger number of our residents convinced of the advisability of a restricted residential zone before seeking its legal creation. Time and educational efforts will bring about the right condition. The dream of sudden wealth from oil on the part of many of our residential lot owners will gradually fade, thereby aiding those who are more loyal to the upbuilding of a worth-while town in the consummation of their hopes."

HOLD SERVICES IN NEW BIBLE SCHOOL

ANAHEIM, Jan. 8.—The first service to be held in the new Bible school and social hall of the First Presbyterian church was held yesterday morning. At this time the regular church service, preceded by the Sunday school service, was held. The building is the first unit of two buildings to be built by this church organization and has not been completed.

The morning service was held on the ground floor which will be used as a social hall, dining room, kitchen and will also have a room where Dr. H. A. Johnson's Bible class will meet. Following the church service several thousand dollars were given toward the building fund. The church structure proper will be begun when the Bible school unit has been completed, in about three weeks time.

The building is at the corner of Helena and Broadway. The formal dedication of the Bible school will be held as soon as the construction work is completed.

Pimples Over Face Itched and Burned Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out all over my face. They were hard, large and red, and festered and scaled over. The pimples itched and burned so badly that I could not sleep. I scratched them, causing severe eruptions all over my face. I was bothered with them for over two years.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the first application relieved the pain, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and about a box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed, in one month." (Signed) Miss Maude B. Jones, Monida, Mont., June 17, 1928.

GARDEN GROVE MASONS. HEADS ASSUME OFFICE

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 8.—In the presence of over 150 persons, officers were installed by Garden Grove Masons last night following an elaborate dinner served by members of the Eastern Star chapter.

The ceremony was conducted by James Cookerham, of Garden Grove, past worshipful master, and E. B. Trago, of Santa Ana, district inspector. Included in the program which was given was a talk by H. C. Head, of Santa Ana. Head told the Masons of visiting a small town near Washington, D. C., where George Washington had been worshipful master of a Masonic lodge. Two piano solos were given by Miss Anita Bell and two readings by Miss Esther Cookerham.

Officers were installed as follows: Worshipful master, Arthur J. Woodworth; senior warden, James Hammond; junior warden, Ernest Littlejohn; treasurer, Frank A. Monroe; secretary, Laurence L. Tucker; senior deacon, Leland Mitchell; senior steward, Brinton Hall; junior steward, W. G. Ferguson; tyler, Harry Ames; marshal, A. Aabell, and musician, W. B. Brady.

A. J. Woodworth, newly installed worshipful master, addressed those present following his installation.

SHIPMENTS OF CITRUS FRUIT BE INCREASED

ORANGE, Jan. 8.—Approximately 600 cars of citrus fruit will be shipped by the Orange Mutual Citrus association the coming season, it was stated today by L. F. Finley, manager. Last year the house shipped 300 cars of fruit.

The association has taken out a building permit to add a porch to the packing plant on West Almond street. The porch will cost about $500.

The growth of this association during the past year necessitated the building of a $25,000 annex. It is estimated by Manager L. F. Finley that an increase of from 1500 to 2000 in acreage has been made above the acreage of last season.

The porch will be built to provide storage for the additional boxes that will be required in handling the fruit this season. It will be 30 by 70 feet and it is expected that it will be completed before the annual meeting of the association January 21.

The annual meeting will be held at the packing plant. Women of the First Christian church will serve a dinner at noon. Speakers will be officers of the Mutual Orange Distributors. Those expected to be present include W. H. Blodgett, head of the field department and A. L. Chandler, manager of the fertilizer department. The annual report of the local house will be given and officers elected.

NEW OFFICERS OF FULLERTON CLUB INDUCTED

FULLERTON, Jan. 8.—New officers of the Fullerton Kiwanis club were installed at a meeting held in McFarland's cafe last evening. One hundred and twenty-five members of the club and their ladies were present.

Those inducted into office were Ted Corcoran, president; Robert Strain, marshal; Otto Evans, assistant marshal; Dr. Graham A. Hunter and Dr. B. Snudden, chaplains; L. O. Culp, secretary-treasurer; Fred Fuller, assistant; L. E. Plummer, district trustee. Harry Maxwell, district lieutenant governor, was one of the speakers, urging closer inter-club relations.

A three piece silver set was presented to Louis Plummer, the retiring president.

200 REBEKAH MEMBERS AT INSTALLATION CEREMONIES IN ORANGE MONDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Jan. 8.—More than 200 members of the Rebekah lodges of this vicinity witnessed the installation ceremonies of the Ruby Rebekah lodge last night. The installation was closed to all but members of the order and was held in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Mrs. Mamie Walker, of Huntington Beach, district deputy, and her staff installed the incoming officers.

Talks were given by Mrs. Fannie Lacy, of Santa Ana, past president of the Rebekah assembly, and Herbert Allen, of Santa Ana, district deputy of the Odd Fellows.

New officers are as follows: Noble grand, Mrs. Ella Heest; vice grand, Ruby Lytzell; recording secretary, Miss Clara Cook; financial secretary, Mrs. Lucy Richards; treasurer, Mrs. Alice Shull; chaplain, Mrs. Alma Coffey; warden, Mrs. Florence Evans; con-

Refreshments were served following the ceremony.

BEACH BOARD OPENS BIDS ON ELECTRIC SIGN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 8.—Bids for material and labor on the traffic signal and electric sign to be located at Main and Ocean were referred to City Engineer Rosson for his opinion. Rosson will report at a special council meeting to be held Friday night.

The city attorney, Lew Blodgett, was instructed to issue a complaint against the Commonwealth Oil company on the grounds that a gas engine belonging to the company is a nuisance.

City Engineer Rosson reported that an oil rig in block 511, complained against by Rev. John Barnhart, was now geyed. Rosson stated that further precautions will be taken by the owners so as to make the rig safe.

The matter of allotting $300 to the chamber of commerce was postponed until the next meeting.

The claim of G. U. Isen for $25 damages to his car, which ran into an open ditch, was dismissed on the advice of the city attorney. The city engineer has offered to have the car repaired in the city shop.

An oil rig at Eleventh and Palm, formerly belonging to Noel Anthony, of Long Beach, was reported demolished at a cost of $175.

Resolution 618, asking the state to appropriate $65,000 for an investigation of sewage and waste disposal, was passed.

The request of the fire chief to attend the fire chiefs' convention at Brawley was postponed until the special meeting.

C. M. Biddle was refused a license to operate a public card game at 118 Main street.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 8.—Mrs. Francis Penhall and sons, Marvin and Delbert are in quarantine for diphtheria for the third week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCall entertained Friday, Mr. and Mrs. J. Chesebro, of Loveland, Colo., who are spending the winter in California and making their headquarters in Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Chesebro were schoolmates.

Mr. and Mrs. Sands, who for some time operated a store in the west part of Westminster, now owned by J. J. Ward, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ray Burke and other friends in town one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. Sands, who reside in Oregon, are staying for several months in Santa Ana with members of their family.

Mrs. C. R. Baxter and Miss Blakey attended the funeral of Bernice Walker Friday afternoon at the Smith and Tutill chapel.

Eighth grade pupils of the Westminster school had an enjoyable evening Thursday, when they took the school bus to Belmont Shore, where they held a winter bake early in the evening. Then the party went to Alamitos Bay where the skating rink was the center of attraction.

The grade mothers, Mrs. Ora Scheiber and Mrs. Eastwood; the eighth grade teacher, Miss Florence Boosey; Mrs. Huddleston, of the kindergarten department; Orel Hare, school bus driver, Orel Hare Jr. and Mary Lou Hare and Marie Johnson accompanied the grade members who attended, these being Lucille Scheiber, Ruth Spencer, Vera Stone, Hermine Cagge, Frank Eastwood, James Goble, Alphonse Camacho, Nelson Morgan, Frank Loftus, Billy Turpin, Rachel Montez, Ruth Krohn, Lucille Grow, Hendetta DeLaCruz and Frank Thomas.

An impromptu basketball game was played Friday afternoon between boys of the Westminster school and of the Alamitos school with a score of 16 to 0 in favor of the local boys.

Teams have not been organized as yet in either school, pickup teams being used in the game. The boys will be organized soon and the girls are to have a team and it is probable the latter will play the girls of the Alamitos school some time within the week.

Twenty years ago there were about 6,500,000 telephones in the United States. Today there are over 19,000,000.

LAGUNA BEACH ART BODY IN FUND CAMPAIGN

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 8.—Additions to the fund of the Laguna Beach Art association available for building purposes aggregated $425 for the month of December, bringing the total in this fund to a little more than $12,500.

But though this sum has been raised, the building now nearing completion has cost more than that and the appeal for funds must be continued.

The frame structure, one of the landmarks of Laguna, which has been used as the show room of the association for a number of years, is now closed. The new building will exhibit the next collection of paintings shown in this city.

Those whose contributions during December aggregated $425 were Mabel G. Whiting, Santa Ana, $5; Mrs. Grace E. Huebner, Ontario, $10; Miss Mabel Alvarez, Los Angeles, $15; Miss Romilda Castruccio, Laguna Beach, $10; a friend, Alhambra, $10; M. Goodcell, San Bernardino, $1; Miss Mildred Ryder, Long Beach, $5; Miss Alice Rosapough, Los Angeles, $5; William Woodward, Bixby, Miss., $5; Peter Carter, Riverside, $5; Martha B. DOG CAUSES SUICIDE

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 8.—A favorite hunting dog is held responsible here for the suicide of Frank Randio. Mary Randio, the widow, told police that Randio had brooded over the loss of his pet and would not be consoled. The dog had been missing a week, she said, prior to her husband's death, the result of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Anaheim Firemen Extinguish Two Fires On Monday

ANAHEIM, Jan. 8.—Anaheim's record of small fire damages was kept intact yesterday, when the fire department answered two calls, one from 340 North Clementine street at the home of G. M. Wetzel, where a defective heater flue caused a small fire that was quickly extinguished and the other from an automobile owner while firemen were returning from Clementine street.

The car was standing at 715 North Zehn street when the firemen were summoned.

The heaviest wood known is iron wood. It weighs 81 pounds per square foot and sinks in water.

C. OF C. HEAD ON MIDDLE WEST TRIP

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 8.—Dan Mulherson, president of the San Clemente Chamber of Commerce left last night on a tour of the middle west. He will be gone one month. Mulherson, a contractor, will mix his businesses as he has taken along much publicity on San Clemente, Orange county and Southern California.

The president of the chamber will visit that section of the country from Duluth to Chicago, St. Louis to New Orleans and return via the southern route to San Clemente.

COLUMBIA ADDS 22 STATIONS TO RADIO NETWORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—What is claimed to be the world's largest regular radio network will be placed in operation tonight. The Columbia Broadcasting system will put on the air a special program celebrating the addition of 22 stations to its nationwide chain. With these new stations, the Columbia hook-up will include 49 broadcasting units in all parts of the country.

The additions are arranged in four groups covering the south, southwest, Rocky mountain and Pacific coast district. The network set up for the last 16 months consisted of stations in the east and middlewest only.

Purchase of station WABC by the Columbia interests recently was announced. WABC will continue to share the duties of key station with WOR until September, when it will be used exclusively as point of origin for all Columbia features.

Tonight's program over the enlarged network will begin at 7 p.m., Pacific coast time, to continue for an hour. A number of prominent radio artists and organizations will be featured, and the concert to include symphonic and popular orchestral selections, operatic arias and ballads.

Stations added to the network are: WRVA, Richmond; WTAR, Norfolk; WUNC, Asheville; WLAC, Nashville; WDDO, Chattanooga; WBRB, Birmingham; WREC, Memphis; KJFF, Oklahoma City; KFH, Wichita; KRLD, Dallas-Fort Worth; WTSB, San Antonio; KTHS, Hot Springs; KLV, Denver; KDYL, Salt Lake City; KYA, San Francisco; KMR, Los Angeles; KGA, Spokane; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WISN, Milwaukee and WDSU, New Orleans.

Old Chain Members

These will supplement the following stations which for some time have been members of the chain: WOR, Newark; WABC, New York; KNAC, Boston; WGAN, Providence; WFSB, Syracuse; WMAK, Buffalo; WCAO, Baltimore; WJAZ, Pittsburgh; WADC, Akron; WJRG, Cincinnati; WQRE, Detroit; WOWO, Fort Wayne; KMOX, St. Louis; WMAQ, Chicago; WBBM, Chicago; KMBC, Kansas City; KOIL, Council Bluffs; WSPD, Toledo; WHK, Cleveland; WLBW, Oil City; WMAL, Washington, and 2XE, New York.

BLUE LAWS WON'T BAR AIR PROGRAMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—There will be no blue laws governing Sunday radio broadcasting so far as the radio commission is concerned.

Louis G. Caldwell, general counsel of the commission, has ruled today that the commission has no power under the law to restrict Sunday broadcasting to religious music and oratory, as asked by the Lord's Day Alliance.

Spanish Concert On Chain Tonight

Performing before a microphone in the NBC New York studios, Los Sevillanos, with Dolores Cassinelli, soprano, and Julian Oliver, tenor, will be heard from coast to coast in a broadcast of Spanish music through NBC system stations from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., Pacific standard time. The following Pacific Coast stations will broadcast the Spanish concert: KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KGO, Oakland, and KPO, San Francisco.

A BUSY MAN

LONDON, Jan. 8.—William Owen, recently retired parish clerk and vergar at St. Thomas church, Coventry, figures he was rather busy during 42 years of service to the community. He attended more than 3000 weddings, 6000 baptisms and 7000 funerals.

Soft Corns

Money Back says Santa Ana Drug Co. and C. S. Kelley if Moone's Emerald Oil Doesn't Do Away With All Soreness and Pain in 24 Hours.

Get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil with the understanding that if it does not put an end to the pain and soreness your money will be promptly returned.

Don't worry about how long you have had it or how many other preparations you have tried. This powerful penetrating oil is one preparation that will help to make your painful aching feet so healthy and free from corn and bunions so that you'll be able to go anywhere and do anything in absolute foot comfort. So marvelously powerful is Moone's Emerald Oil that thousands have found it gives wonderful results in the treatment of dangerous swollen or varicose veins. Santa Ana Drug Co. and C. S. Kelley are selling lots of it.—Adv.

RADIO CONTINUITY WRITER DOESN'T GET DUE CREDIT

In spite of the fact that the continuity writer plays an important part in the success of radio programs, very few applause cards reach him.

For the most part he is unknown to the radio audience even though his work requires as much technique as it takes to turn out a short story or a play.

KGO, the first station in the west to experiment with radio continuity, has always stressed the work of the continuity writers and has made radio personalities of them, always playing up their names over the air.

Arthur S. Garbett, generalissimo of continuity for the Pacific division of the National Broadcasting company, had his start in this comparatively new field of literature at KGO. Frederick Freeman, newspaperman and musician of note, is having distinguished success in writing continuities for the KGO Pilgrims.

Now that other stations are concentrating on their continuities Howard Milholland, manager of the General Electric station, KGO believes that there will be a noticeable improvement in radio programs.

This competition has been responsible for better pay being of write continuities and is attracting more outstanding writers to devote their time to radio, according to Milholland.

RECORD PROGRAMS FOR PRESENTATION

Forecasting a new order in the broadcasting of programs a series soon will be announced over KNX in which a new process permits the assembling of talent in central cities, where a transcription is made by electrical reproduction and transported to the various stations elected to broadcast the programs.

Certain rulings by the federal radio commission were necessary before the programs could be used. The broadcasts are said to include unique entertainment and a number of widely-known artists participate in the making of the electrical reproductions.

The new method is known as the So-A-Tonic process and will be used by many of the larger stations of the country.

Orchestradians To Be Presented Over Air Tonight

Tonight, starting at 7:30 p. m., Pacific standard time, the Fred-Eisenmann Radio corporation will sponsor, for the first time, "The Orchestradians," the largest dance orchestra regularly on the air. This program of latest dance hits will go out over W J Z and associated N B C stations. The week following, and thereafter, a coast-to-coast hookup will be used.

Glossary Of Radio Terms

Interrupted Continuous Waves: Interrupted continuous waves (ICW) are waves obtained by the modulation at audio frequency, during signaling, of an otherwise continuous wave.

Inverted L Antenna: A flat-top antenna in which the down lead is taken from one end of the horizontal portion.

Key: A device for closing and opening transmitting circuits in the act of transmitting signals.

Kenotron: A two-element electron tube highly evacuated, generally used for rectifying alternating currents.

Kilocycle: One thousand cycles.

Lead-in: See Down Lead.

Lightning Arrestor: An instrument placed in antenna circuits to furnish an easy path to ground for lightning or other extremely high-voltage discharges.

Loading Coil: An inductor used to decrease the resonance frequency of an antenna or other circuit.

Logarithmic Decrement: The Napierian logarithm of the ratio of two successive current amplitudes in the same direction, for an exponentially damped alternating current. The logarithmic decrement can also be considered as a constant of a simple radio current, being — times the product of the resistance by the square root of the ratio of the capacity to the inductance of the circuit.

Loop Antenna: See Coil Antenna. Commonly used for a coil antenna of a single turn.

Loud Speaker: A device with or without special amplifying circuits, by means of which received sounds are made audible without the use of telephone receivers held to the ears.

Megohm: One million ohms. The unit of high resistance.

AUTOMATIC COCKTAILS
LONDON, Jan. 8.—An automatic cocktail shaker, which will mix and serve any one of a number of concoctions and operate only during the hours permitted by law, has been perfected by a British inventor. You simply put your money in the slot, press a button, wait a few minutes while the stuff is being mixed, press another button and out comes your drink ready for consumption.

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES NEW LIGHT SYSTEM

PLACENTIA, Jan. 8.—Residents of Evelyn place and Goetze place, two streets in the southwestern part of Placentia, presented a petition to the city council Monday evening asking that something be done by the city to improve conditions along these streets in wet weather.

The streets have no sidewalks and are very muddy when it rains and property owners are willing to co-operate with the city in whatever action might be undertaken.

While the petition was accepted, no definite action was taken on it.

A report was given by Thomas Pickrell from the lighting committee of the chamber of commerce to the effect that the required 55 per cent of the property owners along Santa Fe street had signed the petition for the new ornamental lights.

It was moved and seconded that the city attorney, Albert Leuner, prepare a resolution of intention to create a new lighting district and that City Engineer Bates prepare the specifications.

Representatives of various ornamental lighting systems were present. It was suggested that as chamber of commerce members had been instrumental in bringing this improvement about, that they should be allowed to select the design for the lamp posts.

Police Judge Thomas Pickrell reported $200 in fines collected in the recent drive against violators of the motor vehicle laws.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR IN LONG BEACH
A used automobile, valued at $700, which was stolen from the Orange County Garage company, Fifth and Sycamore streets, Friday, Sunday night was found in a parking station in Long Beach, according to a report made to police here today.

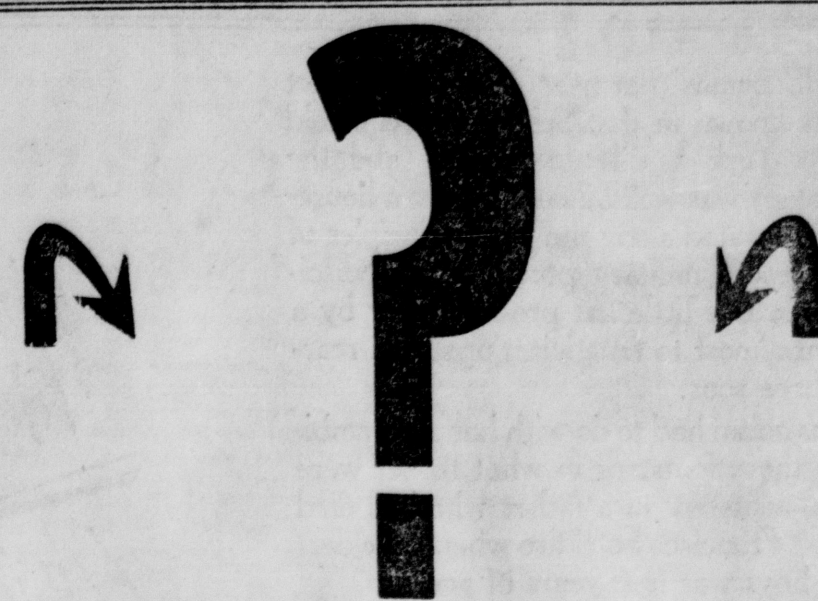

The car was found by Long Beach officers, who were searching for it at the request of Santa Ana police.

The car was stolen when a prospective buyer was granted permission to drive the car to Orange and back on a test run, it was said.

BABY SCALDED TO DEATH

THE Simms' flat near Jefferson Market was known in that neighborhood of old New York as "Little Sparta" and the analogy was well taken. If ever a household rotated along the rigid principles of efficiency, military precision and discipline, it was in this little flat presided over by a widow, intent almost to fanaticism upon the rearing of her three sons.

The fanaticism had to do with her rigid ambition to train these footsteps in what to her were the illustrious footsteps of a father who had died a hero in a San Francisco hotel fire when the eldest of her three boys was four years of age.

It had not been easy sailing since that day fourteen years before when a telegram shot like a bolt out of a clear sky, announcing that the father of her children, then a headline acrobatic performer on a vaudeville circuit, had met his end in a glorious if untimely fashion.

In less time than you would have thought conceivable, however, the widow of Monroe Simms, pulling her startled, unnerved self together, had gone on with the business of life; the business of life consisting from that moment on of rearing her boys into men worthy to be sons of their father.

There were three youngsters, nice boys. Frederick, Allan and Monroe. In the phraseology of the sidewalks of New York, into which they dipped when the vigilant eye of their mother saw fit, they were "regular fellows" with the desires, the ambitions, the hopes, the shortcomings and the naughtiness of average youngsters. If they were just average youngsters, Abbie Simms was never to be cognizant of it. To her they were supermen, carved in the image of their super father, and it was under the supposition of this super dimension that she reared them along the heroic lines which caused their home to be called "Little Sparta".

There was regime about that place, all right. With the determination that these three boys should not only rival but excel the acrobatic excellence of their father, deceased, the brown-eyed, brown-haired, rather heavy-faced, heavy-bodied mother of that household, held to her task like a general.

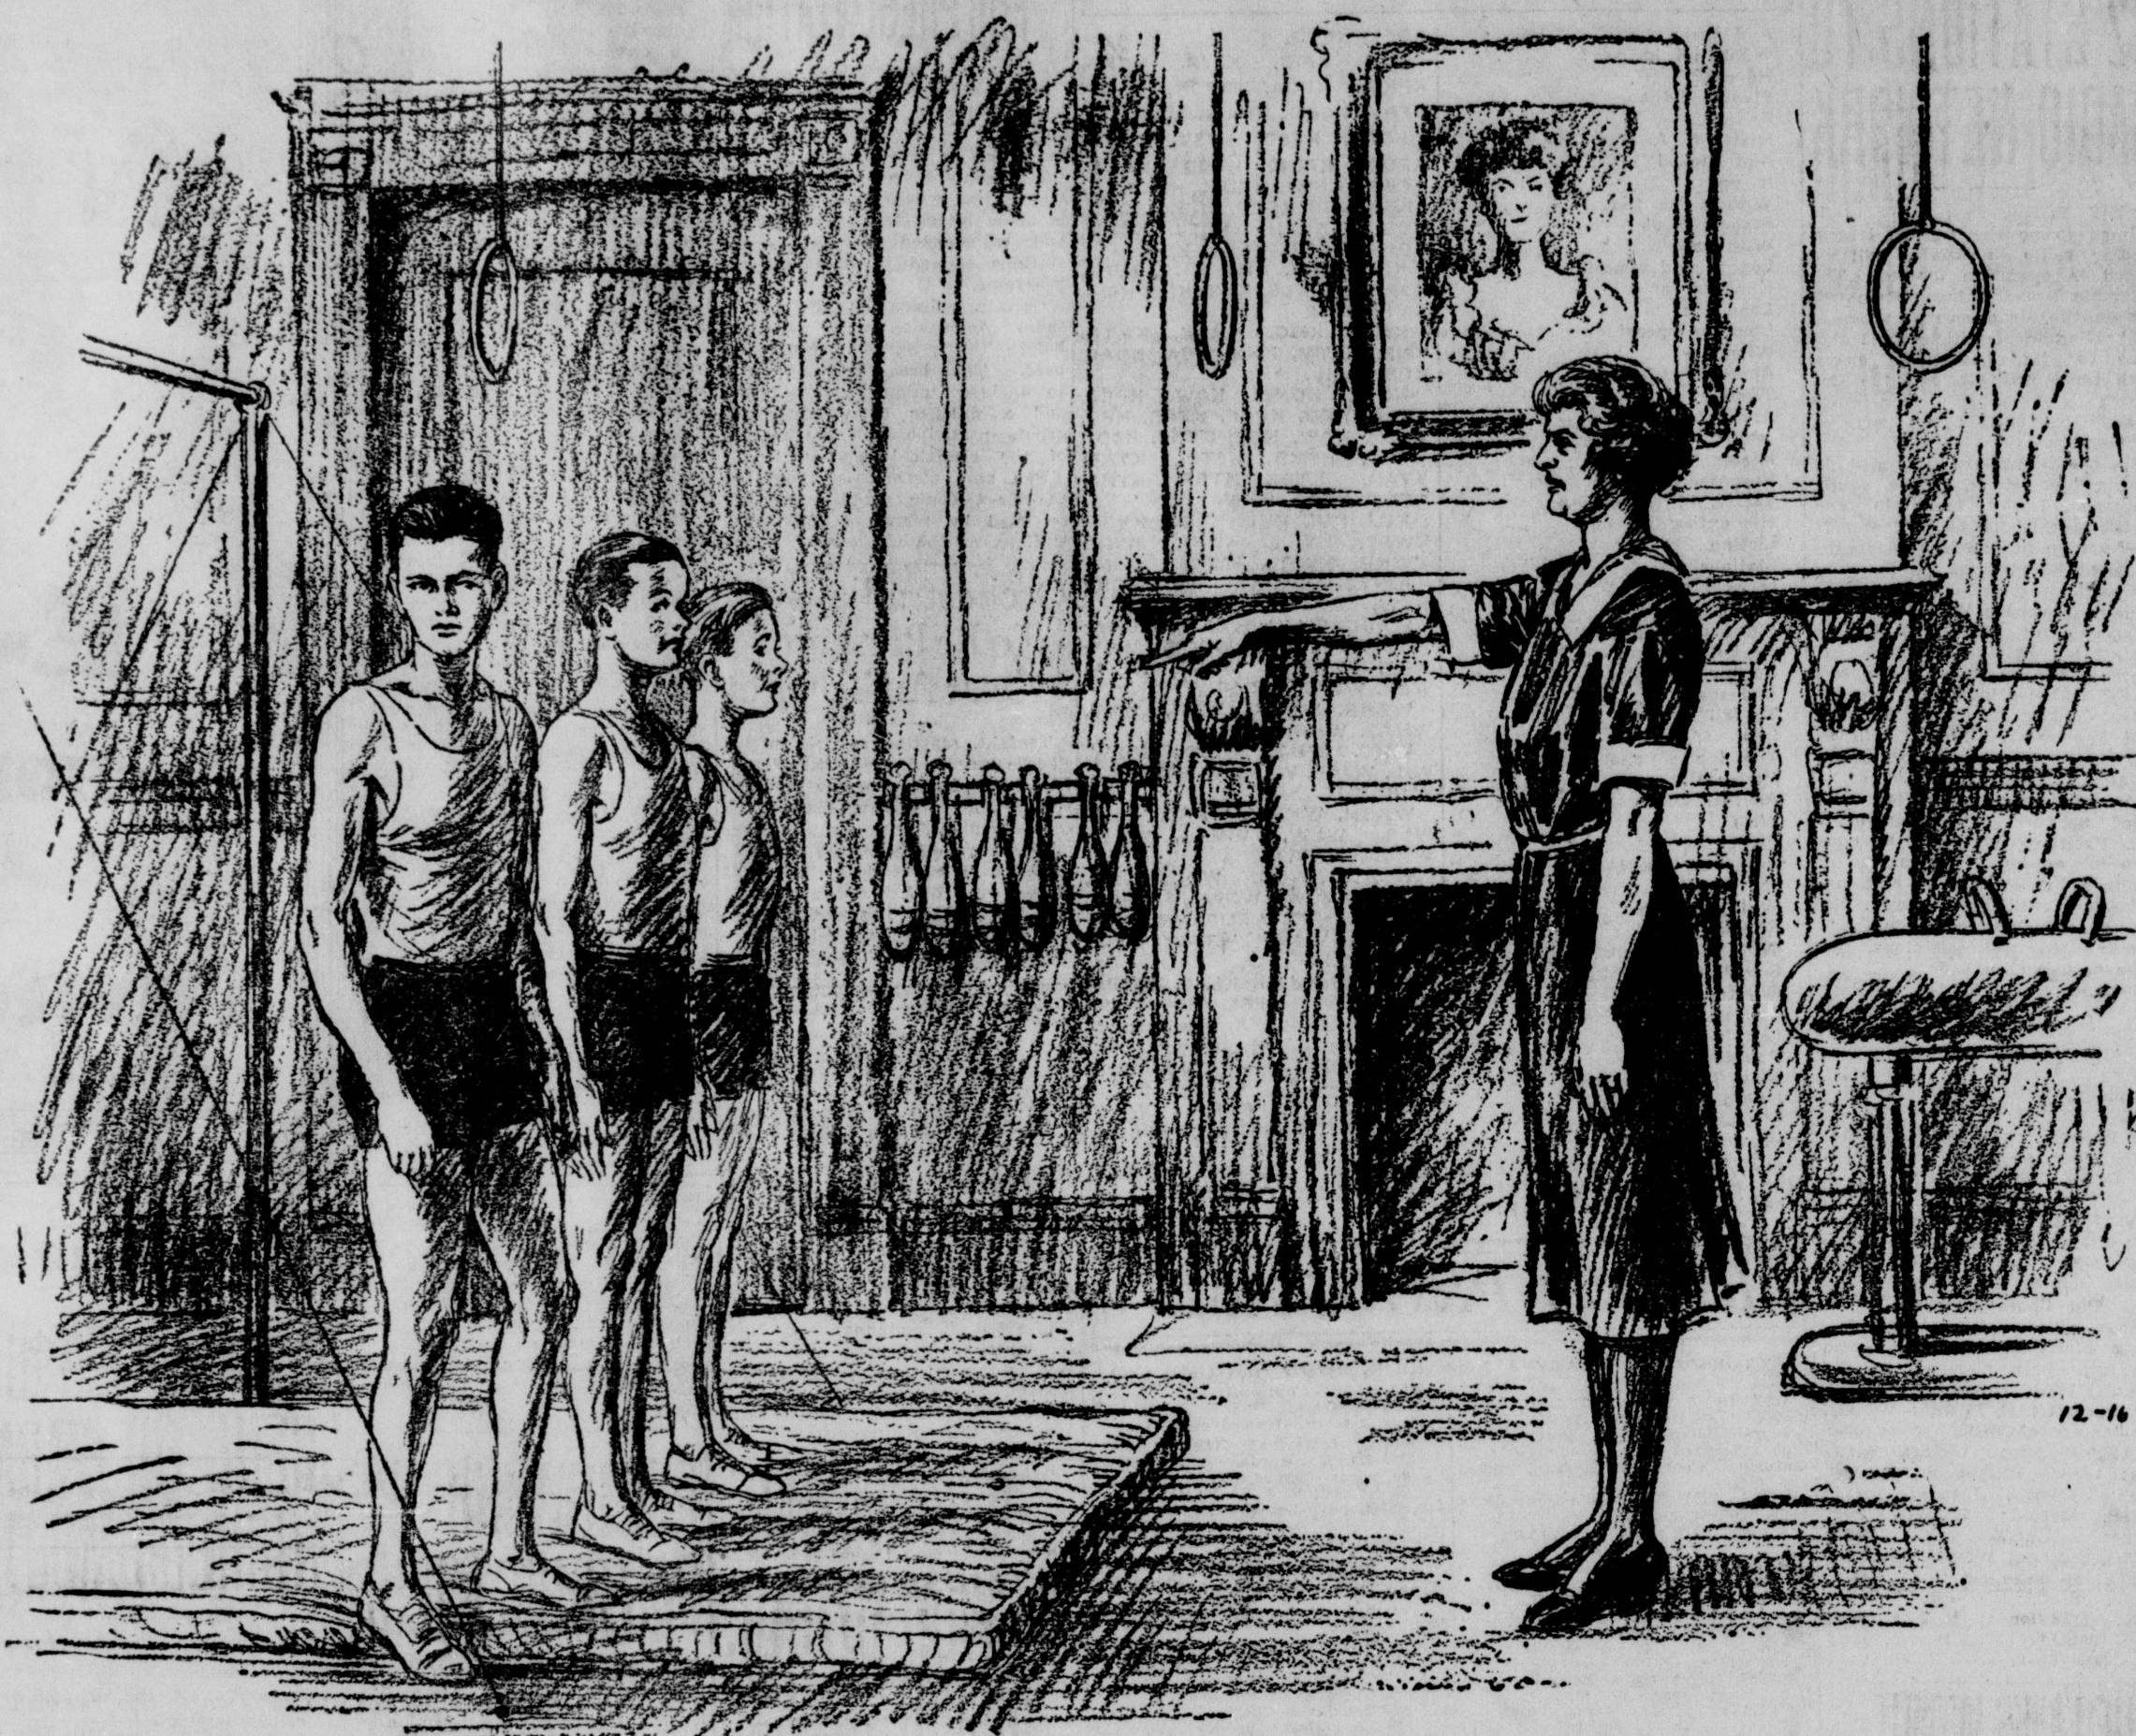

Every morning at six o'clock, the three sons of Abbie Simms went through the torturous processes of cold baths, rub-downs and two hours on the improvised trapeze, flying rings and horizontal bar which Abbie had herself constructed in the front room that should have been a parlor. About eight o'clock, time for the youngsters to start for school, and when Abbie also started for the corner bakery where she served as saleslady, every member of the household had been through what might colloquially be called "a day's work." Then at six o'clock, Abbie and her sons went through a two-hour try-out before the evening meal.

Two hours of strenuous exercise, then a simple, though adequate supper—and then to bed. Such was the routine that the Spartan Abbie Simms established for her three sons. And for herself. She allowed herself no pleasures, no relaxations. Work all day, sandwiched in between a hard two hours of supervision in the morning and a hard two hours at night. And then, for Abbie, housework enough to keep the small apartment neat and the three boys well fed, clean, and neatly clothed.

But for Abbie this was no life of hardship. Her spirits and strength were stimulated by the thought that her super sons were following in the steps of their super father, that her efforts were needed to show them the way.

By the time the eldest boy Monroe was eleven and Allan seven, they were in sufficiently fine fettle as a troupe of juvenile tumblers to receive local engagements for church and charity festivals.

It was along about the time that Monroe was sixteen, that there settled about the eldest of her brood a certain discontent. After all, it was one thing to be known as the swiftest trio of juvenile tumblers in their part of town, but it was another thing to continue being denied the pleasures that youth legitimately craved. The Spartan-like regime of food. Self-denial after self-denial. Forbidden sweets. Early bedtime. Inability to join the boys of the neighborhood in evening diversion. These things began to tell on Monroe. Suddenly

The business of life consisted, for Mrs. Simms, in bringing up her three just average sons—to her supermen, carved in the image of their super father—that they might be worthy children of such an illustrious man. And if these supermen were just average youngsters, Abbie Simms was never to be cognizant of it.

this boy, more than any of the others, began to rebel openly, defiantly and, to her horror, Abbie began to sense among her brood, rebellion.

Allan and Frederick began to share their brother's dilemma of unrest, began to demand their quota of sweets, rebelling against the early hours to bed and the strenuous drill before school. The heart of Abbie might virtually be said to have stood still with fear, with consternation, with dread, but the hand of Abbie never relaxed. If she felt herself spiritually defeated, it was never to show in her face or her manner. Never did her three sons, growing into adolescence, slip out of her hands.

Stormy were the scenes, active was the rebellion, but when Abbie sounded her voice in command, there were her three boys, lined up for work. There was a crayon portrait of Abbie Simms on the wall of the dining room of that flat. She used to look up at it when her boys were chafing and recalcitrant, and square her shoulders and tighten her lips, as if making tryst with herself never to desert the ideal that she had made as goal for her three boys—to be worthy of their father.

When Monroe was a really beautiful eighteen, a tall, slender, poetic looking boy with little suggestion of his steel sinews and power of endurance, the trio attracted the attention of an important local manager, who seeing clown-like attributes in the snub-nosed little Allan, who was double-jointed and could sit on his elbows and look like a cherub, and admiring the skill of Frederick and the personality and actual acrobatic genius of Monroe, decided to have a large and spectacular review written around the personalities of these three boys.

In a way, it was a windfall and yet in another way it was only that for which Abbie Simms had been relentlessly and sure-footedly preparing the way. It had come.

Curious, but Monroe, bitter with restraint, despising his work, was reluctant to go on with it. It was just in such proportion as his astonishing skill increased, that his sullen discontent manifested itself. Bitter were the scenes in that little household. Monroe did not like his work. Openly he revolted. Tired of discipline. Tired of self-denial. Bursting with restless adolescence. He wanted to go West. Anything to be free from the cramping environment.

In vain, Abbie remonstrated, argued, pleaded. If she bested him in the end, it was with a twist of anguish in her heart because it was the kind of conquest that was actually defeat. Her son was staying against his will. The younger boys, infected with some of the rebellion, were, however, well within her power to manage. It was Monroe, rebel, who frightened her.

It became necessary for Abbie to work only two-thirds shift at the bakeshop, now that the big review was in process of becoming a reality. Her boys, her restless, revolting boys needed every hour of her guidance and attention.

Fear sometimes drowned out her pride in them, but never her confidence. These youngsters would be worthy of their father.

It was rushing across the street in her zeal to be home from the bake shop on the boys' arrival from school, that Abbie Simms was instantaneously killed by a truck belonging to the firm that employed her. "She must have gone out with the flash of a snuffed candle," said the doctor. "No warning. No pain. No time to suffer."

She had the largest funeral the neighborhood had ever known. The little Spartan had filled a bigger niche as an example, as an inspiration, than she could ever have realized in her lifetime.

And the thing that happened was this: The spirit of Abbie, as tangible as anything about that household, continued to live in the little room consisting of a trapeze, flying rings and a horizontal bar. The head of that household, over night as it were, became the poetic figure of Abbie's eldest son.

At six o'clock on the stroke, he is out of bed calling to arms, calling to discipline, calling to routine his more lackadaisical brothers. More relentless than Abbie in her lifetime, more dauntless, if possible, more militaristic, the Simms trio has reached its imminence in the theatrical world under the eager-eyed surveillance of Monroe. No privation is too great. No rigor too strenuous, and his younger brothers, in spite of their falterings, have been obliged to follow suit.

The crayon portrait of their mother now hangs in the more sumptuous apartment of the Simms trio. Sometimes, as if to gather some of its strength, her eldest son Monroe stands before her and regards her with sad and understanding eyes.

Y. M. C. A. BOARD NOMINATIONS ARE ANNOUNCED

The report of the Y. M. C. A. nominating committee, making recommendations for the election of the board of directors at the annual meeting of the association on January 22, has been released and posted on the bulletin board of the association for the information of members.

In the past, the entire board has been elected each year, but an amendment to the constitution has been adopted providing for a three-year term for directors with five men elected each year. The committee therefore has not only named candidates, but also has arranged them in three groups.

By the provisions of the constitution of the Y. M. C. A., the nominations are made by a committee appointed for that purpose. Other nominations may be made by members of the association, provided they are turned in to the nominating committee by January 12, or 10 days before the annual meeting.

The nominations offered by the committee are as follows:

For the term of one year: Alex Brownridge, T. D. Knights, P. H. Norton, M. B. Wellington, W. D. Baker.

For the term of two years: J. P. Baumgartner, C. A. Miller, P. F. Schrock, H. W. Lewis, T. J. Hunter.

For the term of three years: W. K. Hillyard, J. F. Burke, G. E. Raitt, W. B. Tedford, J. A. Crans-ton.

Members of the association will have an opportunity to vote on these recommendations at the annual meeting of the organization, Tuesday night, January 22, at which time there will be presented a dinner program of interest to all Y. M. C. A. members and friends.

WALKER IS FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT

A jury in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this afternoon returned a verdict of guilty against J. D. Walker, Long Beach physical culture instructor, charged with petty theft in connection with the alleged stealing of avocados.

Walker was arrested on December 21, when he was found by members of the county fruit patrol near the Marshburn ranch. Yorba Linda, a sack containing avocados, was found nearby, it was said.

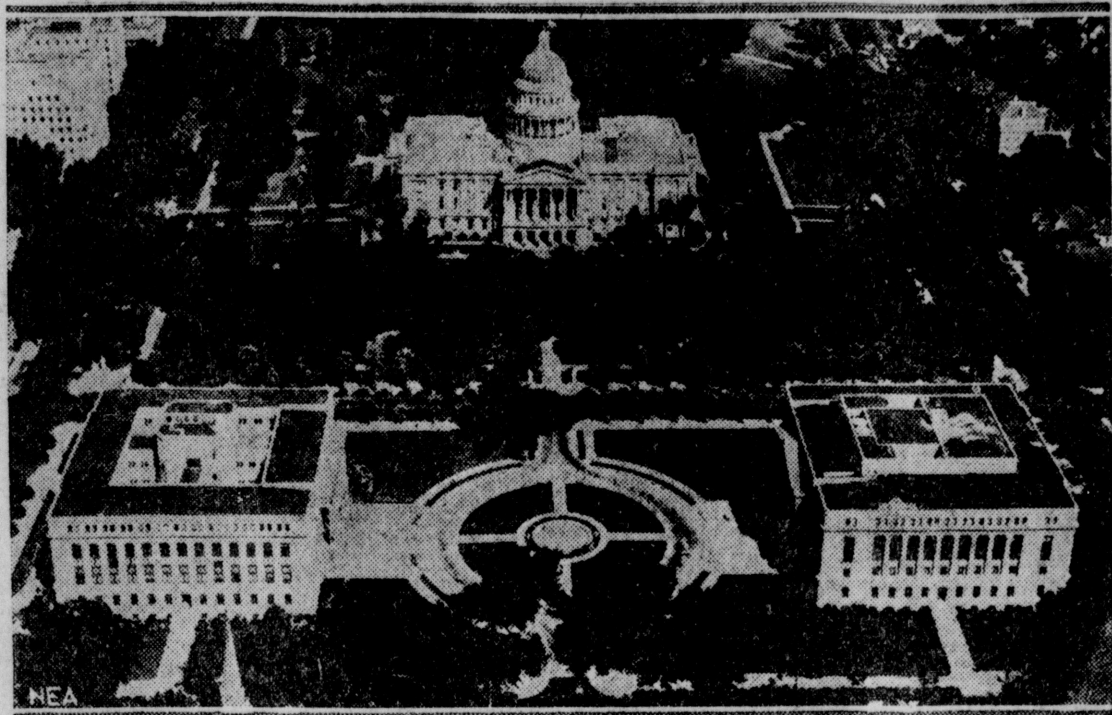

Justice Morrison set tomorrow afternoon as the time for pronouncement to judgment.

HEIRLOOM IN COAL BIN

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 7.—A bright gleam from a shovel full of coal helped Mrs. Benjamin R. Crowell, Lima, to recover a gold thimble, which was lost in a fire many months ago. The thimble is reputed to be more than 100 years old.

CALIFORNIA'S STATE GROUP COMPLETED

The capitol extension buildings have been completed in Sacramento, to house the increasing number of state departments and workers. The two new structures are in the foreground in the airplane view. The agriculture building is on the left, and the state library and court building on the right. To the rear is the older capitol and its famous park of trees from all parts of the world and all Civil war battlefields.

TOASTMASTERS TO MEET UNDER NEW OFFICERS

The Toastmasters' club will meet at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night for its first regular program under the direction of the recently elected officers. The list of speakers promises a meeting of unusual diversity of interest, the secretary, Don Lemon, says in his weekly bulletin.

Jack Baker is to serve as toastmaster and the speeches are listed as follows:

"Oranges and Snow-capped Hills," J. B. Head.
"The Grand Jury Report," W. J. Ferris.
"The Humorous Side of an Accident," W. K. Hillyard.
"The Byrd South Pole Expedition," Earl Matthews.
"Colder Than Ice," Ridley C. Smith.
"Wilkins at the South Pole," Nat H. Neff.
"Collections and Hard Cash," Frank Humphrey.

MRS. WALLOP HOSTESS

PLACENTIA, Jan. 8.—Mrs. William Wallop was hostess to the booklovers' section of the Round Table club Monday. Miss Emily Cuff was the leader. The books from which excerpts were read were "The Shining Hour," "Guyford Wier," "About Ourselves" and "Skyward."

Those present were Miss Cuff, Mrs. H. S. Gaines, Mrs. Travers, Mrs. E. E. Knight, Mrs. Leon T. Gillman, Mrs. James Cohoe, and the hostess, Mrs. Wallop.

The total number of telephones in the British post office telephone system on June 30, 1928, was 1,662,201.

18,000 BOOKS LOANED DURING DECEMBER, BUSIEST MONTH IN SANTA ANA LIBRARY'S HISTORY

December, 1928, was the busiest month in the history of the Santa Ana public library, according to Miss Jeannette McFadden, head librarian. During the holiday month, 18,000 books were loaned to Santa Ana readers.

The last six months of 1928, July to January, inclusive, showed an increase of 22,000 in circulation over the same period in 1927.

Last Saturday, January 5, was the largest single day the library ever has experienced, Miss McFadden stated. More than 1190 books were borrowed from the library during the day.

During the month of December, 322 new books, including both fiction and non-fiction, were added to the shelves.

The reference work in both the junior and adult libraries has been especially heavy during the last few weeks, Miss McFadden declared.

At the present time there are 1800 books in the Santa Ana school libraries and, as the first semester in the 1928-29 school year rapidly draws to a close, circulation in these branches is unusually heavy. Library officials were unable to explain the sudden increase in circulation during the last month, which is usually the driest in the year.

INN MANAGER TO TALK AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 8.—Robert Bisby, manager of St. Ann's Inn, will be the chief speaker at the Exchange club luncheon tomorrow in the Legion hut.

LEPER WOMAN SLOWLY DYING, ZAISER CLAIMS

Orange county's leper is dying. Having maintained a virtual hunger strike and having refused all medical treatment, Mrs. Carlos Rivera, of Delhi, slowly is slipping to eternity in the county hospital today.

Dr. Harry Zaiser, director of the hospital, informed the board of supervisors of the woman's condition late today. Mrs. Rivera may live for five days, Dr. Zaiser estimated. Weakened by lack of food and the effects of her disease, she has only a small amount of resistance left, he said.

She refuses to swallow, according to Dr. Zaiser. She takes almost no food and is not able to retain what she does take. Quietly she is waiting for the end. A week ago Dr. Zaiser informed the board that some provision probably would be necessary for Mrs. Rivera inasmuch as she was thought to be insane and also probably ineligible for being received in any state institution or leper colony. Although clinically established as a leper, all bacteriological tests had been negative, Dr. Zaiser told the board at that time. Mrs. Rivera was brought to the county hospital several weeks ago.

PLAN TALKS FOR SAN JUAN P.-T. A.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 8.—The P.-T. A. of Capistrano will have its January meeting tonight at San Clemente in the grammar school. Mrs. A. W. Hood, president, has invited the fourth district president, Mrs. Nell Beisel, of Santa Ana, to be present. W. L. Scott, of the Santa Ana schools, will be the speaker of the evening.

Snapshot Contest Being Conducted In Julia Lathrop

Frances Willard junior high school is conducting a contest for the best animal and bird snapshot taken by boys and girls of Santa Ana. It was announced today by W. S. Kellogg, principal of the school. The contest will continue until May 1.

Prizes are offered winners of the contest. While the competition is intended to stimulate interest of pupils in the nature study classes, the contest is open to all boys and girls of the city. It was pointed out. Tame and wild birds and animals may be photographed for the purpose of the contest, Kellogg said.

NEW EXTENSION COURSES OPEN IN S. A. TODAY

Special extension courses are scheduled to open in Santa Ana today, according to R. H. Drake, superintendent of buildings and grounds of city schools.

All classes will be held in the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school with the exception of the study in elementary Spanish, which will be held in the Santa Ana junior college by Lella Watson, head of the language department in the college, on Tuesday nights, from 7 to 9 o'clock. Five credits are given for the one year's course.

Hazel Bemus, supervisor of art in the city schools, will offer a course in visual education for which two credit points are to be given. The class will meet from 4 to 6 o'clock daily.

In the English department Modern Novel will be taught by Mrs. Eleanor H. Northcross from 7 to 9 o'clock night with one credit allowed.

Elementary school teachers will be offered a course in music appreciation and public school music from 4 to 6 o'clock daily, with Mrs. Frances Beeson, supervisor of music in the city schools, in charge. In each of these courses two credit points are given.

Drake also announced that there have been several inquiries concerning an extension course in United States history and he said that if 25 persons will take the course it can be arranged under the auspices of the University of Southern California.

Those interested in any of the courses are asked to call the board of education offices for information.

FELLOWSHIP IS PASTOR'S TOPIC IN ROTARY TALK

Making his first address before the Rotary club, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church and a member of the club, today demonstrated his versatility by delivering a ringing and powerful address on good fellowship, punctuating it with stories on different members of the club.

The meeting today was in charge of the fellowship committee and Earl Matthews presided as chairman.

Opening his address with the remark that "churches create the atmosphere in which you men make your money and rear your families," the divine developed his talk along the line of self-sacrifice and extension of help to the "other fellow."

He offered as a New Year's resolution the suggestion that individuals resolve to conduct themselves on the line of "discovery"—that an individual should not look backward but always forward.

"Men grow old only when they stop making new discoveries," the Rev. Mr. McFarland said.

D. C. Cianfoni, director of the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, made an appeal to the Rotarians for support.

Theft Of $50 In Strong Box Being Probed By Police

Police Monday afternoon were attempting to solve the mystery surrounding the theft of $50 from the community strong box of the Grand Central market, which occurred sometime yesterday.

The money was the property of J. T. Morrison, one of the merchants in the market, and had been left in the strong box overnight. A key was used to open the box.

The same box was robbed more than a year ago by a thief who possessed a key, but at this time another merchant in the market had the box, it was reported. A total of $60 was taken at that time.

'ONE OF US MAY BE FAMOUS'

Four young men were walking across the campus of Stanford university in 1893, when one of them said: "Boys, let's have our pictures taken. Who knows, some day one of us may become famous." So the four boys did, and here is the result. President-elect Herbert Hoover is shown seated, to the left, next to James White, now a successful engineer in the Hawaiian Islands. Standing, with the derby, is Arthur Diggle, who distinguished himself as a mining engineer in Australia, where he later died. The boy with the straw hat is R. E. McDonnell, head of a large consulting engineering company in Kansas City.

ONTARIO TO BE SCENE OF FARM ENGINEER MEET

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers will hold its next meeting in the Chaffey Junior college, Ontario, beginning at 10 a. m., Friday, it was announced today. Subjects of interest to the general public will be discussed and the public is invited to attend.

L. S. Wing, engineer for the California Farm Bureau federation, will discuss the standard agreement for pumps. This agreement was drawn up by the state university, the farm bureau, and representative pump manufacturers and creates a fair and equitable basis for both the purchaser and manufacturer.

In the afternoon A. W. Christie, field manager for the California Walnut Growers' association, will talk on the dehydration of fruits and nuts.

"Design and Construction of Electric Brooders" and "Brooder Practice and Operation" also will be discussed. These latter discussions will be led by J. E. Dougherty, of the university farm, and W. E. Lyon, of the Lyon Electric company.

ONE INJURED WHEN AUTOMOBILES CRASH

R. C. Adams, 49, Santa Ana, route No. 3, suffered an injured shoulder Monday afternoon when the automobile he was driving collided with a machine driven by J. Wallace, of Santa Ana, at the intersection of Van Ness and Parson streets, according to a report made to Santa Ana police. After receiving medical treatment in a physician's office, Adams was able to go to his home.

DEVICES HOLD LEGAL STATUS, SWANNER SAYS

The city council cannot adopt an ordinance prohibiting something that is permitted by a state law; the council cannot pass an ordinance establishing a fee that is made clearly for the purpose of forcing an enterprise out of business; the best solution of the slot machine problem lies in the passage, by the next legislature, of a law that will effectively put a quietus on the operation of the machines.

In a nutshell that is what City Attorney Charles D. Swanner last night told the city council while discussing operation of slot machines in Santa Ana.

Swanner pointed out that machines delivering mints with each operation and machines that indicated what a player was to receive when he dropped a nickel in the slot and pulled the lever was within the law.

No Gambling Element

He pointed out that in addition to returning a package of mints, slot machines, when properly operated, indicate to the player what he is to receive in chips before he deposits his money. When the player knows what he is going to receive, the gambling element is eliminated, the city attorney intimated in his discussion.

At the same time, the attorney stressed the point that merchants having machines in their places are liable to arrest when they permit minors to play the devices, the legal advisor asserting that it is incumbent upon such a merchant to protect himself by seeing that minors do not place their money in the slots. He also commented on the fact that chips secured by operation of such machines must be redeemed in merchandise and not in cash.

The council directed Chief of Police Rogers to detail men to investigate machines in the city and to confiscate the equipment or arrest merchants in instances where it is found that a package of mints is not delivered for each nickel played in machines. Punishments also are to be investigated.

Money Machines Illegal

In further commenting on the legality of the devices, Swanner said that machines returning money instead of mints and chips and machines that return chips direct with one play are outlawed. Councilman Stanley Goode, who broached the subject of the slot machines at the meeting of the council last Wednesday night, closed the discussion by offering a motion that the City Attorney address a letter to Senator N. T. Edwards and Assemblyman Ted Craig, urging their support of any bill introduced in the legislature that proposes abolishment of the alleged gambling devices. When his attention was drawn to the fact that all bills must be introduced at the short session of the state body, the motion was withdrawn until such time as copies of bills covering the machines may be received here and studied.

Swanner reminded the council of the failure of Santa Ana in a suit to collect an excessive license fee here in the case of Leo Hartfield jewelry store closing. The city attempted to collect what the court held to be an extravagant license for the operation of an auction in closing out the store's stock.

Blue Pencil Club Holds Semi-Monthly Session At Dana Point

Twelve members of the Blue Pencil club, Santa Ana high school's journalistic organization, journeyed to Dana Point last evening for their semi-monthly meeting. The group was accompanied by William Wilkinson, instructor in journalism at the high school.

The group played games on the beach and enjoyed a dip in the ocean, before partaking of a picnic supper.

A brief business meeting was conducted around a large campfire by John Dunlap, club president. It was decided that the organization will meet Monday night in the high school music room. A special speaker will be obtained, and a musical program presented. The club will also vote to adopt a pin for members.

Those who attended the beach picnic were Halstead McCormack, Elva Thompson, Mildred Crowl, Alice Myers, Ellen Schenley, John Dunlap, Gladys Early, Elva Cook, John Huddleston, Don Young, Richard Robbins and William Wilkinson, faculty advisor.

"Music" to Be Discussed At Y. W. C. A. Meet

The appreciation of music is to be the topic of discussion tonight at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. of the junior college. The meeting of the women students has been called for 8:30 o'clock in the campus Y hut.

Miss Mary Batten, instructor in music at the college and high school will present the subject, and it is thought that students will later take it up in discussion.

A pot-luck supper will be served at 5:45 o'clock, and singing will be the popular diversion before the program hour.

Guests at the affair will include Miss Evelyn Metzger, Miss Virginia Powell, Miss Mydas Capps, Miss Thelma Morehouse, Miss Flora Greenow, and Miss Vera Mae Smith, all students at the University of California at Berkeley.

Haliburton Book Read By First Travellers

Richard Haliburton's "Royal Road to Romance" was read yesterday at an interesting meeting of the First Travel section of the Ebelle society that was held at the Rose Arbor Inn. The section has been reading the book for some time and it is nearly completed now.

The business meeting of the Travelers was preceded by a delicious luncheon that was served at one large table, gay with flowers and lighted tapers.

Those present for the meeting included the hostesses, Mrs. I. W. Van Cleave and Mrs. Stephen Ross, Mrs. A. W. Ames, Mrs. M. F. Heathman, Mrs. Alice Tubbs, Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Mrs. L. L. Shaw, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. W. M. Smart, Mrs. J. P. Baumgartner and Mrs. H. C. Dawes of Los Angeles.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Good Beef to Rebuild the Invalid
Physicians say that for rebuilding strength after flu and heavy colds nothing takes the place of good beef, cooked just enough to make palatable.

This opinion will not suit everyone and I will probably call down on myself the wrath of the meatless advocate—but that's all right, too.

An appetizing way to serve the small portion allotted to the invalid is—

BEF BALLS ON TOAST

Wipe a small piece of round steak cut in quarter-inch strips. Lay the strips on a meat board and with a spoon scrape along the grain of the meat, taking out the soft meaty part and leaving the stringy connective tissue.

Heat an iron skillet very hot, shake some salt on the pan (no butter), form the soft beef mixture into balls and drop on the sizzling hot pan. Shake or turn them until they are well seared.

Arrange on thin slices of buttered toast, sprinkle with parsley and pour over them "pan gravy," made with butter browned in the skillet and a little hot water.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Carrot Casserole
3 or 4 bunches of carrots
3 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
1 cup dry breadcrumbs
2 tablespoons chopped chives or same of green onions
3 tablespoons melted butter
1-3 cup grated cream cheese

The carrots for the casserole must first be cooked and well mashed; three cups are necessary, and you must be able to judge by that the number of carrot bunches needed to make this amount.

Scrape the carrots clean, cut in pieces and cook in a small amount of water, or steam them, which is still better for the mineral elements are thus retained.

When the carrots are soft, mash them, season with butter, pepper and salt. This might be done in the morning—it takes but a few minutes to put the casserole together and into the oven.

Let's talk about CHIVES for a moment. Chives of the onion family, are used for the seasoning qualities found in slender green tops. They are in season now, can be grown in a pot for the kitchen window if you care to. When green onions are substituted be sure and shred the green tops for seasoning.

Melt the last amount of butter, chop the chives or green onions fine, and combine smoothly with the prepared carrot and dry crumbs.

Pack into a shallow buttered casserole, sprinkle the top with grated cheese, a sprinkle of paprika, and then into a hot oven for 15 minutes to heat through and quickly brown the cheese top.

There are 1500 calories in his recipe with four large portions. The quantity of butter, and the combination of starches make this a dish sufficiently nutritious to serve as a meat substitute.

You will be delighted, after you have sent in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the current leaflet, SPICED GOODIES, to find how many practical yet delicious recipes you will find in it everything from desserts to spiced meat sauces.

TOMORROW we will have Rosy Apple Salad.

ANN MEREDITH.

Ebelle Members Enjoy Dinner Plans and Book Review

Ebelle women who attended yesterday's monthly business meeting and book review in the clubhouse auditorium, were repaid with one of the most interesting sessions imaginable. Mrs. F. E. Coulter, president, in the opening interval, announced definite plans for the annual "Courtship" dinner, when Ebelle husbands will be complimented in advance of the anticipated Lowell Thomas lecture, and Mrs. Jack Valley of Los Angeles, gave concise but thorough analyses of several unusually interesting books.

Since Lowell Thomas is to address the clubwomen and their guests on the night of Monday, January 14, it was deemed to be a particularly suitable time to repeat the friendly entertaining of last year, when Ebelle husbands were bidden to the first courtesy dinner on the night of John Erskine's lecture. Mrs. Coulter announced her committee chairmen yesterday, and Mrs. Frank A. Paterson, general chairman, went into further details of the plans.

Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock in the peacock room, and Angus J. Cruikshank has been asked to voice the greetings of the husbands entertained, while Mrs. Sam W. Nau will speak for the hostesses.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland will offer invocation. During the dinner hour Madame Marie Louise will stage a fashion show, which she promises will be even smarter and more striking than that of last year.

Early Reservations
Since attendance at the dinner must necessarily be limited to the peacock room's capacity, members are requested to make their reservations at once through either Mrs. Ralph Smedley, 1975R, Miss Louise Tubbs or Mrs. W. B. Williams, 382.

No reservations will be accepted after Saturday morning.

Mrs. J. T. Wilson and Miss Martha Ritchey will have charge of the decorations while the table lighting scheme will be in the hands of Mrs. A. G. Flagg and a committee to be selected by herself.

Incidentally, Mrs. Flagg has chosen red candles to attain her effect, and has asked for donations of any size or shape, just so they are the proper degree of gay crimson. Nut cups will be selected by Mesdames L. C. Fairbanks, C. H. Lurker and Emerson Marks. Mrs. W. H. Haddon and Mrs. J. H. Metzgar will direct the waitresses, and the table arrangement will be in the hands of Mesdames E. B. Sprague, Cood Adams, J. S. Smart, H. H. Dana, Archie V. Herr and Hugh Plumb.

Dinner Committee
The most important committee of all will be that in charge of dinner plans, and Mrs. Charles Carothers as chairman, was a logical choice, as the clubwomen will agree. Her splendid staff will be made up of Mesdames T. D. Knights, Roscoe Wilson, Edward Walker, W. I. Ferrey, T. F. Ham, Lea Warren, W. D. Baker and W. W. Anderson, with other reserve helpers, including Mrs. Emrys White who will assume responsibility for gels, relishes and marmalade.

Turning their attention from hospitable plans, the clubwomen yesterday settled back for complete enjoyment of Mrs. Valley's "literary interval." This opened with an outline of the general situation regarding books, and her investigations into the best sellers at Christmas time. Leading all others she found, was Ludwig's "Life of Napoleon," which although not in its first or even second year, easily maintains its place as "best seller." Second in point of interest, was "Disraeli" and third, was

Miss Estella Daniel Greets Hoovers at Valparaiso

Miss Meta Daniel of the Santa Ana high school faculty has just received word from her sister, Miss Estella Daniel, who is principal of the "escuela popular" at Valparaiso, Chile. The escuela popular is a school that is run under the management of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions.

Miss Daniel, who was sent to South America as a representative of the First Presbyterian church in Santa Ana, was among the Americans in that city who had the honor of meeting President-elect Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover when they visited Chile recently.

The missionary wrote that the Chileans show their respect for a noted personage by absolute quiet so that when Mr. and Mrs. Hoover left the launch at the dock there was absolute quiet.

Soon after their landing, however, the members of the visiting American party were greeted with the national anthem of Chile and a salute was fired.

Miss Daniel was among those to whom Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were introduced before they left for the interior. As the American party boarded the train the Chilean band played the Star Spangled Banner as a special tribute to all of the Americans present for the reception.

Two Young Women Are Hostesses at Bridge

Miss Charlotte Harnois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harnois of 414 East Walnut street, and Miss June Goodwin entertained a group of their college friends and former high school classmates at the Goodwin home at 606 East Santa Clara avenue recently.

Bridge was the entertainment of the afternoon, and Miss Irene Fuller held high score and Miss Louise Hampton second. Both were rewarded with attractive gifts as was Miss Darline Nelson who held low score.

At the close of the afternoon Mrs. J. R. Goodwin, assisted by her elder daughter, Jean, served refreshments to the guests who included the Misses Louise Hampton, Della Hampton, Elizabeth Beall, Catherine Best, Jean Campbell, Mary Elizabeth Rutledge, Grace Alberts, Nettie Jones, Mrs. Verlin Anderson and Mrs. Harold English of Santa Ana; Miss Flora Greenow of Orange, Miss Leona Prange of Long Beach.

The Misses Kate Baldwin, Margaret McLean, Elizabeth Green and Hazel Johnston, classmates of Miss Harnois at Whitier College; Irene Fuller of Santa Ana, Monica, and Darline Nelson of Los Angeles, who are classmates of Miss Goodwin at the University of California.

Novelty Numbers Will Feature Dance Program

Adding greatly to the zest with which Santa Ana's dance lovers are looking forward to the Current Events dance at Ebelle clubhouse Friday night is the announcement of a special program of novelty dances that have been arranged by a committee under the direction of Mrs. John Estes Jr. Mrs. Estes' committee includes Mrs. C. H. Lurker, Mrs. George Holmes, Mrs. Wade Warner, and Mrs. Clyde Jenken.

The dance program will include feature dances as well as several competitive dances for which prizes will be awarded.

Sanford's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion by Mrs. C. H. Lurker and the dance will last from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles Doty is in charge of the tickets for the affair but any member of the section has them to sell.

Story of Indian Tribes Told By Mrs. Bond

The history of the Pueblo and Navaho Indians and the story of their present lives and customs was told in pleasant manner yesterday by Mrs. G. W. Bond at a meeting of Chapter AB, P. E. O., that was held at her home on East Myrtle street.

Members of the chapter gathered at the Bond home for a delicious luncheon that preceded Mrs. Bond's entertaining talk. Mrs. Bond illustrated her lecture with many Indian articles from her own collection which is an especially interesting one.

Mrs. Harry Brackett gave several piano solos to complete the afternoon's program.

HOW TO END CONSTIPATION

If you want to get rid of constipation for good, you must cleanse the liver of its stored-up bile, and get it to working right. Remember it's a torpid, lazy liver clogged with bile that keeps you constipated. This surplus bile poisons your whole system, causing headaches, bad breath, low skin, sour stomach, gas, indigestion, dizzy spells or other disagreeable symptoms.

All that any ordinary physic does is to force a bowel movement without getting at the liver. What you really need is a gentle, easy way—no irritation or weakening of the organs. Large bottle $1. On sale at all good drug stores. Always in stock at White Cross Pharmacy—Adv.

Entertaining Program Presented at Dinner Of B. and P. W.

Varied interests awaited the Business and Professional Women's club members last night, when they assembled in American Legion hall to dine, discuss hostess duties for the southern district convention next spring, and hear a unique program presented by Miss Helen Sinclair of the Orthopaedic Hospital School for Crippled children, in Los Angeles.

January program committee members planning the event were Mrs. M. C. Maloney, Miss Teresa McDonough, Mrs. Italy Lee, Miss Elizabeth Phillips and Mrs. J. C. Schmidt, and conspiring with the enterprising young women of the American Legion auxiliary, they offered an enjoyable evening indeed. The dinner, was prepared and served by the auxiliary girls.

Red candles lighted the tables, and emphasized the colorful flowers arranged by Mrs. Hazel Northcross and a group of aides.

Mrs. John A. Tessmann presided at the officers' table, and presented business matters, and the program chairman, Mrs. Maloney. The latter introduced Miss Sinclair, who has appeared on various B. and P. W. programs, and who is a member of the publicity staff of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School. She in turn presented pupils from the school, who gave the musical entertainment.

Miss Millie Cutler, demonstrated a gift for musical whistling, with Mrs. Italy Lee as her accompanist. Ten numbers were "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Indian Love Song."

Three young men, like Miss Cutler, members of the Senior Alumni association, gave popular songs with ukulele accompaniment. They were Frank Sterck, Jack Phelps and Arthur Schroeder, and their numbers included "I'm Sorry Sally," "No Matter How Young a Prune May Be," "Those Lonely Nights," and other gay melodies.

In connection with this part of the program, a two-rolled film of activities at the hospital-school was shown, demonstrating some of the accomplishments of surgery and wise treatment.

Miss Sinclair in her illuminating talks, emphasized the three-fold ideals of the school—physical, educational, and spiritual encouragement, and a restoration to the children, of their rightful, normal activity and happiness among their fellow citizens. She told of the standing of the school, not as a Los Angeles project, but as a general Southern California one, and one upon which all Southern Californians should be informed, since the children to

Pre-nuptial Dinner Is Pleasant Affair

The wedding of Miss Viola Schmidke and Orval Lyon, the account of which appeared in The Register yesterday, recalled many charming courtesies that were extended the bride before her marriage which took place Sunday at the Little Church of the Flowers at Glendale.

One of these was a pretty dinner party and shower that was held at MacFarland's cafe in Fullerton recently. The affair was planned by a group of friends of Miss Schmidke and they included Miss Adelaide Proctor, Miss Louise Bryant, Miss Boyd Joplin, Miss Nancy Elder, Miss Adele Lutz, Miss Blanche Yokum, Miss Hattie Bell Wall, Miss Mildred Calkins and Miss Mabel Pruitt.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

The death of Theodore Roberts, "Grand Old Man of the Movies," revealing his unhappiness because of loneliness in estrangement from his family, is surprising not so much because of his revelation of family trouble as that a man should be so emotionally dependent on family ties and incapable of carving out happiness with or without family harmony.

One of our social traditions is that man can live alone both outwardly and inwardly if he has his own fairly satisfactory job, but that woman is the emotionally dependent sex. Nine times out of ten this is true. Sometimes a Theodore Roberts is merely the exception.

MILADY'S JEWELS

A huge emerald was sold in London the other day for $238,500. The emerald sale brought out the report that more jewels were being sold right now than ever before, more than a million dollars worth being turned over in one day at one jewel house.

But a wisecrack to the effect that England's starving and freezing unemployed must be delighted to know that the Duchess of Something or Other will have her emerald is rather out of order. Jewels mean much more today than mere baubles for personal adornment. Sales of emeralds like this mean about the same impersonal colorless thing of high finance as the sale of stocks or bonds or real estate.

HIS CLAIM

A certain artist recently sued his wife for divorce on the grounds that she "destroyed his power of creative art." Whether he gets the divorce or not is not so interesting as his reason. It makes one wonder what would happen if all the wives in the world who believe that they might be great successes of one sort or another if they weren't married would begin suing right and left. Funny how both men and women will forget all about these aspirations till after they're in marriage—then begin groaning for the thing that might have been! Or isn't it so funny?

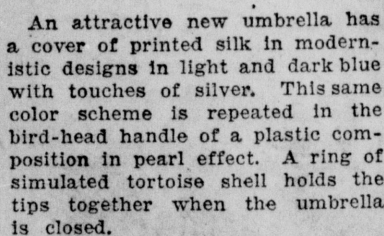

I DIDN'T KNOW!

A 17-year-old girl was recently caught by the Denver Juvenile Court for some irregular social procedure involving two husbands without benefit of divorce from the first one. She naively explained that she had never heard of bigamy and didn't know she had done anything wrong.

Either she's a clever girl or a moron, and either augurs rather ill for society. Someone is inclined to believe that those too-smart modern girls make about as many messes for themselves and everyone else as the moronic ones who don't know that having two husbands wasn't done in the best circles.

THE BRIDEGROOM

Everett L. Mugler, prosperous manufacturer of Buffalo, N. Y., attended a party in honor of himself and the girl whom he was to marry the next day, then went home and killed himself. "Insanity" is the obvious glib comment. Maybe so; maybe not. The border line between the world of so-called normalcy and that of the sub or abnormal is hard to define. And the complexes in human beings' souls of which we occasionally catch a glimpse, when desperation drives make us wonder what the great minds of mental and emotional science are doing for all baffled humans.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The cookies from the cookie tree were just as good as they could be. And milk that flowed from nearby stream was very nice and sweet. The Tiniates ate all that they could, and Scouty said, "My, this is good." "You bet," replied wee Cowpy. "It is really quite a treat."

Then, when their little meal was through, one dwarf said, "Tell us what let's do. Let's scamper to my little house and take a needed nap." So off the cheerful band all went, and soon they found a little tent.

Said she, "You're smart, but all the rest are rather dumb."

"While they're asleep we'll dance and play and have some fun all through the day. I've found a little dwarf who plays an organ very sweet." She called the dwarf and out he came. They soon found he was in a frame of mind to send out pretty tunes. Said Clowny, "What a treat!"

The queer dwarf turned the crank real fast. The little fairy said, "At last! There's music in the air and we can gaily dance around." So Clowny, thrilled with her sweet charms, real quickly took her in his arms, and started dancing merrily, and lightly 'cross the ground.

(The Tiniates have a queer slide in the next story.)

Fashion Hints

The vogue for colored shoes to match or harmonize with the costume grows apace. An attractive new color is featured in an iridescent bronze kidskin shown in many styles for wear with brown velvet, silk or chiffon gowns. Another shade that will be popular for spring is slate blue. Pale kid is also among the leaders.

There is a trend towards an increased vogue for black underthings and black rayon is being used extensively for this purpose. An interesting set seen consists of a black rayon slip, trimmed with narrow black lace and with two bands of shirred red satin ribbed above the hem. Pants similarly trimmed match the slip, as well as bloomers.

The matching handbag and shoe ensemble continues in the mode. An interesting variation of this vogue was seen during the week in a pouch bag and shoes of dark green suede trimmed with snake-skin. The bag was mounted on a composition frame which exactly matched the color of the bag.

Two-piece sports suits are being shown in two tones of the same fabric. The darker shade is used for the blouse, which is trimmed in dark-colored buttons to match the shade of the skirt.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"The Home Towners," which opens tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater, is the latest all-talking picture of Warner Bros. and is said to be the most perfect. If "Lights of New York" was thrilling and "The Terror" was the last word in the ludicrously uncanny, "The Home Towners" is genial, chuckling, and altogether delightful.

The cast is made up of stars of the stage, all of whom have trained voices. The famous Richard Bennett, now playing "Jarnegan" on the Broadway stage, is featured with beautiful Doris Kenyon; Robert McWade, who played the same role in the New York production of George M. Cohan's famous play, from which "The Home Towners" is adapted, plays the same part in the talkie version. Robert Edeson, Gladys Brockwell, John Miljan, Vera Lewis, Stanley Taylor, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron, all names to conjure with, are also prominently cast.

The story has to do with a small town business man who comes with his wife to the Big Town to free his boyhood pal, now a millionaire, from his infatuation for a young woman, whom the country friend is assured is robbing his old crony in the tangle that follows and the untangling, makes a comedy of unique and inexplicable charm.

YOST BROADWAY

Lina Basquette and Eddie Quillan will present their final dance in "Show Folks" tonight at the Yost Broadway theater, where the picture closes after a three days' run. "Show Folks" has combined the silent drama and the "talkies" in such fashion that there is not the shock when silent actors suddenly begin to speak or else we are becoming accustomed to the innovation.

Tomorrow's bill at the Broadway will present "None But the Brave," a sparkling little story filmed over at Catalina Island, with Charlie Morton in the feature role. It is said that while the picture was being filmed, the two-score of bathing beauties in the cast, "drowned" at an alarming rate. The explanation was

SCIATICA THE DEMON PAIN

Tingling, prickling pains that travel down the thigh and leg to the heel are caused by an inflammation of the sciatic nerve. Don't waste time taking drugs to "mask" these pains. Get a supply of Tysmol, that soothing, healing absorbent which goes in through the pores and helps to drive out the inflammation completely. Tysmol is guaranteed harmless—free from narcotics. Excellent for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia or rheumatism. Nothing like it for muscular soreness and stiff, swollen joints. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at C. S. Kelley Drug Co.—Adv.

that there was a particularly handsome life-guard on duty.

Morton himself, an expert in life-saving, came to the guard's rescue, and after a whispered consultation with him, their plan went into effect. Whenever a girl screamed for help, she was given an hour of artificial respiration—generously applied. The rest of the story was filmed without any trouble.

In addition to "None But the Brave," the Broadway will offer five acts of vaudeville. The Cavana Duo, European artists, will give contortion feats and slack wire stunts, with pretty Nancy Cavana adding songs, dances and harp numbers. De Bell and Miller come billed as the "Mirthful Black Birds." Harvey and Dale offer a satire amusingly costumed in the manner of fifty years ago. Ted and Art Miller, billed as the "Whispering Harmonists," will play their own ukulele accompaniments, and Frank Evans, the skating dancer, combines various talents.

HOW bitterly now she remembered the day he had pleaded for her young beauty!

Then his ardor had been the very breath of life to her, his every touch a thrill.

But as days and weeks and months of wedded life slipped by . . . she saw he loved most what he didn't have. Her kisses might be late, but breakfast—never!

More and more she became his property.

Nearer and nearer the yearning in her heart came to the breaking point—the breaking point of all convention, all restraint, until—

That night! Like a thirsty flower she drank in his ardent words—false or true, what did she care?

What if he was a stranger?—to this wife who was starved for romance, he seemed less a stranger than her husband!

But there were things she didn't know—that—How sweet it was—but how terrible the amazing climax! Should she have realized this man was—?

But you will want to read this tremendous true story as it is told in full—frankly and vividly—by the woman who lived it. This is but a glimpse of her amazing adventure—read it complete—"The Wife Who Had To Have Romance"—in February TRUE STORY. With 13 other great stories from real life, and many exclusive features. TALBERT

TALBERT, Jan. 8.—John Pope is driving a new roadster.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Herman entertained with a New Year's dinner party in their home. Miss Josephine Herman was at home for the occasion, and other guests included Pauline Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Larsen, son and daughter, Paul and Pauline Larsen, of Compton.

Mrs. Anna Gislser was the honor guest in the home of her nephew, Harry Harper, of West Fifth street, Santa Ana, when a watch party was held, a big birthday cake being brought out after midnight by the hostess in observance of Mrs. Gislser's natal day, which falls on January 1.

Those attending were Mrs. Gislser, Mrs. Anna Harper, Donald Harper, Mr. and Mrs. William Pike, Miss Josephine Herman of Talbert, Miss Bula Cone, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harper and son, Jack, of Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gislser and Miss Cecilia McIntyre returned Wednesday from a motor trip to San Francisco, where they spent the Friday previous to spend the holiday with relatives of Mrs. Gislser and Miss McIntyre. The party reached San Francisco Saturday, leaving New Year's afternoon on the return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gislser, Walter Gislser and son motored to Pasadena New Year's day, attending the rose tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buckingham have had as visitors through the holiday season, King McDonald and Benny Hogan, both of Bakersfield.

Mrs. Bob Buckingham is daily expecting her brother from Jamesville, Tenn., who is coming to California with the idea of locating.

Mrs. William Pike had as visitors Wednesday, Mrs. Roscoe Wood, Mrs. Harry Harper, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Alex Herman.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Jones went Wednesday to Norwalk where Mrs. Jones remained for a few days with her daughter. Mrs.

Jones, who has been ill, is under treatment in Norwalk, the family home of the Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hoepfner and children joined a family party composed of Mrs. Hoepfner's mother, Mrs. George K. Scott, of Pasadena, and brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Neathery, of Riverside, at Mrs. Scott's cottage at Balboa Island New Year's day.

Mrs. Ted Bushard and two children, of Santa Ana, spent New Year's day with her sister-in-law, Miss Rose Bushard, who left that evening for Los Angeles to resume her studies at U. C. L. A. Henry Cousyn, of Tulare, brother of Mrs. O. Folkert, was a visitor from Friday until Wednesday in the Folkert home. Mr. Cousyn motored down to be with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cousyn, who arrived recently from the family home in Iowa and are house guests in the Folkert home.

O. Folkert left Thursday evening for Phoenix. Mr. Folkert will purchase cattle while in Arizona and will be away a week or more.

The city of Chicago recently opened its first dial telephone office in a residential area, the new office bearing the prefix of Longbeach.

TEX RICKARD'S BODY BACK IN SPORT TEMPLE

to pay tribute to their late president.

Because Rickard was a man of no particular religion, those in charge of his funeral services were seeking today to have a priest, a rabbi and a Protestant clergyman participate in the final rites.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, who assumed charge of the late promoter's affairs at Miami Beach where Tex died Sunday morning, wired his approval of these arrangements.

The young widow, who was married to Rickard early in 1928, left their infant daughter, Maxine, at Miami Beach in the care of Mrs. Walter Fields, wife of one of the promoter's confidential employees. Mrs. Rickard bore up bravely under the strain of the journey.

With the imminence of the funeral services, those who must carry on for Rickard in his many enterprises were loath to discuss the pressing problem of his successor.

It was felt by many that Jack Dempsey was the only man of sufficient public popularity and knowledge of the business of boxing to step into Rickard's shoes. Dempsey probably will give up the intention he had harbored of returning to the ring this year, although he is reserving his final decision in the matter.

The directors of Madison Square Garden have appointed Col. John S. Hammond, president of the New York Rangers, as acting general manager of the arena. This position comes naturally to Col. Hammond, since Rickard had appointed him his assistant in December.

DEMPEY WILL TRY TO CARRY ON

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The body of Tex Rickard arrived at 10:15 a. m. today from Miami Beach, Fla., and was taken with a police escort to the Campbell mortuary.

A crowd of 400 or 500 gathered outside the gates of the Pennsylvania station to view the $15,000 coffin containing Rickard's body.

To prevent a crush, the casket was borne by a freight elevator to the street level where a motor hearse waited to take it to the funeral parlor.

Mrs. Rickard, Jack Dempsey and others in the party rode up another freight elevator to escape the crowds.

"So far as possible I'll try to carry out Tex's plans," Dempsey said. "But I can't say anything more until after the funeral."

By his statement it was inferred that Dempsey would work for the success of the Stribling-Sharkey bout at Miami, Feb. 27, which Rickard was arranging before his death.

"Elizabeth and Essex" by Lytton Strachey.

Touching lightly upon Beverly Nichols' "delightfully impudent" book, "The Star Spangled Banner," Mrs. Valley suggested that its purpose was to regain for him the interest lost by the critical attitude of his earlier books, in which the young Englishman as a social American customs and persons.

Abbe's Book Quoted

"The Art of Thinking" by Ernest Dimmet, was the first book on the formal list, and was really the theme of the afternoon, recurring at intervals in her summing up of other words. She quoted Abbe Dimmet himself to the effect that the book was "written for average minds, equally removed from genius which knows no obstacles, and from stupidity to which everything presents obstacles." His advocacy of careful study as one reads, of underlining, and of repeating the gist of the reading matter was emphasized.

Some of the books of the list were summed up in a few concise words, others were gone into more at length, and of the latter, none more so than "The Case of Sergeant Grigori" by Arnold Zweig, which is creating so much interest among literary folk. Mrs. Valley told the story with the same dramatic simplicity that is a characteristic of the book, comparing it with its stern sweep towards the tragic, with the old Greek dramas.

Dubretton's "The Fourth Musketeer," served as an analysis of Alexandre Dumas, "Himself a true D'Artagnan." In dwelling on "The Fourth Musketeer," the speaker cited Alexander Woolcott's contention that Lytton Strachey was the logical one to write the biography of Charles Dickens.

"The Literary Record of Life in the home of a large American university professor, written by Braviss Imbe, serving as a butler in the household in order to work his way through school, was named as being an amusing expose of a thoroughly imbecile woman and of the lack of letters in a college professor's home. "We Forget Because We Must" by W. B. Maxwell, was given rather a detailed review and pronounced a well worth-while novel.

Other books on the list included "Sports" by John R. Tunis; "How and Why of Human Behavior" by George Dorsey; "The Terrible Storm" by E. M. Schuch; "Nothing is Sacred" by Josephine Herbert; "The Whisper of a Name" by Marie Le Franc; and "The Vicar's Daughter" by E. H. Young.

be treated, are drawn from every community.

"We know that you believe as we do, that such work must be limited," declared Miss Sinclair.

"Yet that is what is happening today. Three things have brought about this condition, a more than 300 per cent increase in the number of patients asked for treatment during the past three years, the necessity for expansion and replacement programs to care for them all, and the curtailment of Los Angeles Community Chest funds, which analyzed our registration records and discovered—fairly enough—that at least 16 per cent of our patients came from towns and communities which lie outside Los Angeles Community Chest territory.

Orange county, of which Santa Ana is the heart, has proven over many years that it does believe in the reclamation of crippled children. The men and women of Santa Ana have given generously of their funds that this institution might be the finest, best equipped and most efficient hospital of its kind, and we believe we have justified your faith. Over 150 Orange county children have been patients there during the past few years. It is our belief that, once this city and other cities of the county understand our situation, they will not hesitate in finding a way to help us meet our needs."

It will be remembered that children from this school, give a minstrel program in the Santa Ana high school auditorium over three years ago, under the auspices of Kiwanis club. A similar but much more elaborate program is to be given again on the night of February 1, and Miss Sinclair will be in the city in the intervening weeks, enlisting the aid of various service clubs and churches.

At the close of the talk, Mrs. Tessmann asked Miss Mabel Larick of the convention planning

OTT ASSUMES PRESIDENCY OF EXCHANGE CLUB

John Ott, Santa Ana Exchange club president for 1929, with other members of the new administration, took office at today's meeting in Ketter's cafe. Ott announced the committees which will carry on various phases of the club's activity during the coming year.

A delegation from the Newport Beach Exchange club attended the session and offered a return golf tournament, which the Santa Ana club accepted. Teams representing the two clubs recently played a match on the Santa Ana Country club course, which was won by the Santa Ana aggregation. Ott appointed Ed Pettitt, Kemp Taylor and C. D. Swanner as a committee to make arrangements for the event.

An inaugural party will be held by the club at a date in January yet to be selected. The affair probably will be a dinner dance in the Santa Ana Country club. A committee in charge of Gene Hays is making arrangements for the dance, which was postponed during the recent influenza epidemic.

Each member today received a gift from the Mexican women in the Americanization department of the public schools, which is assisted by the Exchange club. The gifts were ash trays made from clay in the shape of sombreros.

The appointments announced by Ott were as follows:

Sergeant-at-arms, Don Jaden; pianist, Bartley Sims; auditing committee, Ed Pettitt and De Witt Dudley; Americanization committee, Jim Mahony, Sol Gonzales and Bob Shilling; membership committee for the next 90 days, Gene Douglas; Da Vitt, Dudley, and Leonard Baker; luncheon entertainment committee for January, Clyde Jenken, Charles Van Wyk, Frank Koss and Don Jaden; evening entertainment committee, Gene Hays, Les Eckel and M. L. Wishon.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

"The Background of the Bible" by Henry Kendall Booth, pastor of the First Congregational church in Long Beach, is intended for those who do not have time for detailed and extensive study. It gives concisely a comprehensive idea of the meanings and values of the Bible. In order to accomplish this in as interesting as possible a way, the emphasis has been laid upon the background of thought and life out of which came the various biblical books.

In addition to giving a vital interpretation of the Bible which makes it of greater value in our lives, this author has linked the wealth of biblical thought and life with the revelations of modern excavation. The social life as shown by the remarkable findings in various countries have thrown a great light on many hitherto obscure customs and trends of thinking in the holy land.

This great book was born out of live revealing God at work in life. Its inspiration is of life rather than letter, of men rather than words. It is a book that is as complete as compared to other religious books, lies in this fact that it is from beginning to end a Book of Life. Its great personalities, with their glowing deeds and wonderful lives, even more than their immortal words have a power to make our life that can nowhere else be found. Its power to inspire has not been lost amid the complexities of our modern life. It is ever new, its truths ready to make our lives more complete, if we pause long enough to read and study it.

Full of Inspiration

A beautiful life made more lovely by religion can be seen in the life of Sir Wilfred T. Gifford, the Labrador doctor. In his new book he leaves his chosen field for a year's holiday. In this time he sought experience in Egypt, the Sudan, Palestine, Syria, Mesopotamia, India, Malay, China, and Japan. He returned much enriched by the experience and passes his inspiration on to us in "Labrador Looks at the Orient."

His narrative is interesting because of the modern conditions of which he tells. Problems in the Near East, India and the effort of Ghandi to make self-government possible, China and her growing nationalism, Japan's colonial administration of Korea, the future of Japan in her own country, and many other problems in the Orient.

In order to make this more potent the author gives us fascinating accounts of the history and legendary lore of each country. In this part of the world there are many living monuments to the past, which help to make more understandable the present.

This sympathetic viewing of another part of the world strengthens the faith of the Labrador doctor. Love is still the greatest thing in the world and alone can solve the "mystery of Asia." He left the Orient with gratitude for courtesies and kindnesses that have opened new visions of the future when wars and rumors of wars shall cease from the earth. Looking into the future he sees a world in which all men shall be brothers forming one family all over the world.

Spirit of Beauty

The spirit of beauty is a powerful uniting force in our world of strife. Edna St. Vincent Millay is at once its disciple and prophet. In her new volume of poems, "Buck in the Snow," she once more pays homage.

She sees loveliness in a multitude of things. In the chuckling and singing of a black Bobolink under the rainy sky, she feels a kindred throbbing to that in her heart. Pao-Chin, a boatman on the Yellow Sea played a small song on a Chinese flute which comes a trifle strong to the poet but to the reader of her lines comes a beautiful eyes, made more lovely by the rainbows in the lashes, speak of beauty. While she is studying a broken pot from the mesa pueblo, there appear to her red Navajo's enchanted, the red shafted flicker and his bride. Their beauty too powerful for mortal spirit almost shatters the whole dream.

This writer has the poet's fear of the mortality of beauty. In the title poem of the volume, she sees a buck and his doe go "Tails up, with long leaps lovely and slow."

Over the stone wall into the woods of hemlock bowers with her lies he here, his wild blood scalding the snow."

In "Letha" she attempts to find the "giver-back of beauty." She asks:

"In these cool waves
What can be lost?
Only the sorry cost
Of the lovely thing, ah never
The thing itself."

Makes Beauty Immortal

After reading these and other exquisite poems from her volume, we feel that the poet has found the way to make beauty immortal. In the delicate beauty of her lines, the cameo like clearness of her

TRANSLATING PROGRESS INTO LOCAL ADVANTAGES

All the amazing improvements in automobile construction become valuable here in Santa Ana only as they are handed on to car owners by local automobile dealers. Your own interests as an owner and the performance of the car you buy depend upon the local facilities for operation and maintenance needs, and local responsibility for your satisfaction in ownership.

Those who buy the new Studebaker here get all the benefits that the manufacturer intended they should have—not only today but year after year.

When you are considering the purchase of a used car ask yourself these questions:

"Will the man from whom I am buying still be in business six months or a year from now?"

"Has he a real interest in me as a customer? Does he value the possibility of future business as much as the immediate opportunity for profit?"

"Has he a real stake in the business community, an established reputation which he must maintain?"

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

The content of Governor Young's message should be read by every citizen of California. It is not the deliverance of a politician or of a demagogue. It is the presentation of the result of thorough investigation of the needs of California from every conceivable angle by a student and a statesman.

Governor Young is clear-minded enough to realize that many of the constitutional provisions and laws which were perfectly adequate to the needs of California some years back, are totally inadequate in the light of its growth and present expansion. All great institutions look far into the future in making plans for their growth, their income, and their expenditure. To this the Governor has addressed his attention, discussing the condition ably, and fortunately is able to indicate that we are in a proper condition to work out, unexposed by any immediate financial emergency, our income producing resources for the future.

Not alone does the Governor direct the attention of the citizens to these phases of California's problems, but he also emphasizes the social aspects of the state's activity with equal broad-mindedness and intelligence. He suggests the possibility of a State Department of Penology and minor reorganizations to aid in establishing contact between the prisoners, penal institutions for women, the Bureau of Criminal Identification, the Advisory Pardon Board, and the Division of Narcotic Control.

He makes a significant statement in regard to the highway program when he says that the long time highway program financed by the "pay as you go method" will produce a saving of $24,000,000 on the next biennium loan compared with the old bond issue methods. He emphasized the thought that politics in its meaner sense should be taken out of the whole highway activities, that the extension of the state highway system should depend on the recommendation of the department of public works, which in turn should have its judgment determined only by a careful study of the traffic requirements and highway use.

Possibly some would consider that his suggestion in respect to pensions is rather liberal when it is realized that California is the haven toward which so many thousands from other states are coming. At the same time, it should be borne in mind that the difficulties which may suggest themselves as reasons for caution in these respects can easily be met through proper conditions placed in the legislature.

We believe that his proposal to make a very thorough and complete survey of the state school system is timely, and the proposal to push the state park program will find a response in the minds of all Californians.

It is an able message, filled with much information concerning our state affairs and directing our thought along interesting and important channels.

KEYES TRIAL OPENS

A spectacle is opening in Los Angeles county which tends to sicken the heart of every patriotic citizen. It is the trial of the former district attorney, Asa Keyes.

We are not presuming upon the guilt of Mr. Keyes and his associates, but neither can we blind ourselves to the fact that it is not very probable that a prosecution would have reached this stage of procedure if everything had been conducted by the prosecutor's office with that fair and even-handed justice the position warrants.

Five defendants, besides the prosecutor, are up for trial. It will be a battle of the giants. Every device known to the law will be used in the defense. While we have known of men convicted of crime who were innocent, we never heard of a man high in official life being so convicted and afterward proved innocent. It will be exceedingly difficult to have justice done in its complete form in this case.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS

It has not been long since a million dollar income was considered a most fabulous sum, and rare indeed was the individual who enjoyed it. But on the first of the year three men were promoted to positions in the banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company, each of whom, it is stated, will receive from his position a minimum of that amount. These three men are sons of members of the banking house.

It is not difficult to understand why foreigners are astonished at the class of people in business in America. The lure of the big income takes them there. Business is more honorable in our country than it is in some foreign countries, or may we say that politics possibly is less so?

DAMAGING EVIDENCE

According to a wife's testimony, a husband in Los Angeles county has been yanking various parts of the automobile from the machine every time he has become angry at his wife. Fenders and other parts have disappeared one after another. It is possible that other people have been playing the same game. If this be true in some cases we have seen machines that indicated some frequent and fair-sized fuses. At any rate this is better than getting angry at his automobile and tearing his wife to pieces.

QUESTION MARK COMES DOWN

The army ship "Question Mark" came safely to earth after 150 hours of continuous flight. It was a great event, but in a very few years, and possibly inside of the next 12 months, it will undoubtedly be surpassed.

At the same time, the five men who piloted the plane during that important period proved the ability of men to maneuver a plane under some varied conditions, and they carry with them as big a load of honor as can come to most men in a life time.

A PREMIUM ON VERSATILITY

Gaily we pass judgment and accept new things; and shortly we demand them. The fatalities along the roadway of progress we regard as necessary and dismiss from our minds when it is possible. Most of us usually find it possible. It is easy to forget other people's troubles. Even when we forget them, however, there are those who are paying a heavy price for the meteor-like mechanical progress of which America is so proud.

This morning we note a little item, almost buried in a New York daily about Louis del Guidice, forty years old, a musician who has given most of his life to the study of music and he knows no other way of making a living. The Vitaphone has jeopardized his livelihood. He finds it difficult to get employment. The other day he became so discouraged that he took poison. He was later found and removed to a hospital in a serious condition.

It is a slow process to absorb the laborers thrown out of employment by the various inventions which have come so thick and fast. During the process the laborers suffer and frequently pay a heavy price. It matters little how kind-hearted an employer would be, naturally. Competition forces him to adopt the new methods. His own livelihood depends upon his cutting costs by the use of new machinery so as to meet the production cost of his competitor who adopts the new methods. Similarly with such inventions as the Vitaphone. The theater manager cannot wait to install the Vitaphone until his musicians have all been cared for. By that time his patrons would all have gone to other theaters.

Progress is inevitable. It cannot be stopped and can hardly be delayed but we are painfully sorry for those who are caught and discarded.

The past would offer us a lesson. In training our children for work and labor which would insure them against want and insure them of comforts and joys would it not be well to fit them for more than one kind of labor? If this poor musician had some other means of earning his livelihood his chances for success would be doubled. One of the first principles of investments is the old, old one of not "putting all your eggs in one basket." It can be applied to our labors as well as our investments.

MIGHT ADOPT A NEW LANGUAGE

The English language seems to be losing its clarity. It appears well nigh impossible to word a treaty or a pact in English with a glossary, footnotes, a diagram, and an explanation. Can't someone write a few words in English which will satisfy Senator Moses that the United States would rather remain at peace than go to war?

We will soon distrust our own language to such an extent that our diplomatic notes to foreign governments will be accompanied by an English grammar, rules of rhetoric, a book of synonyms, and an up-to-date dictionary as well as a note of interpretation.

If we say that peace is our national policy, we must explain that we still adhere to the Monroe Doctrine, and that if the Japanese army should attempt to land on the Pacific coast we would still defend ourselves. We must also explain that if a war breaks out in Europe this pact does not bind us to enter into that war in order to demonstrate that peace is our policy.

Well, if it is necessary to demonstrate the obvious in order to ratify the Kellogg pact, let us write it all out and write "quod erat demonstrandum."

SKATES AND SKATES

We notice that the telephone companies have provided their operators with roller skates to facilitate their movements from one board to another. Well, turn about is fair play. We are certain that the telephone operators have been confident that many of the users have "skates on" and take it out on them.

Don't Be Surprised

San Diego Union

Something like a mechanical conscience—upon an institutional, not a personal, scale—has been proposed by Mr. August Vollmer, Berkeley's noted police chief, for the protection of banks against burglars. The plan sounds like a neat and simple one. It is nothing more nor less than the installation of electrically operated motion-picture machines, working in connection with the usual burglar alarms, which would begin operation whenever anything untoward took place. At the irruption of unauthorized customers, the cameras would begin grinding. At the conclusion of the affair, there would be available a complete action picture of what took place—obviously a great help in identifying and convicting the evil doers.

In due time, with the progress of our civilization, this idea will possibly be extended to wider fields of usefulness. Motion-picture cameras installed in concrete pillboxes at boulevard stops or dangerous intersections, operating by concealed contacts, may take pictures of traffic violations. Pedestrians crossing streets may hire sidewalk movie operators to record their course, including any accidents that may happen to them. Mothers with jam closets, and wives going on vacations, may install automatic movie cameras at strategic points in the house.

In fact, if all citizens were to be required to turn in continuous movies of all their activities every 24 hours, it is probable that crime of all sorts would automatically become surrounded by inconvenient consequences.

Sense of Humor

New York Times

A scientist would be hard to please who couldn't find something to his taste in discussions ranging all the way from the dimensions of the universe to the sense of humor of Vassar girls. One wonders if they have any left after Miss Polyxene Kambourpoulou got through with them. It seems that she submitted 4,000 jokes to her student friends, and asked them in each case to record whether they laughed, and if so, how hard.

It is possible to laugh at a joke, if you like the man who cracks it and want to encourage him. It is possible even to laugh at two jokes. Sometimes a skillful humorist will arrange his stories in so subtle a way and render them so insinuating that their effect is cumulative, and the loudest peal of laughter will greet the third, fourth or even fifth story, if the evening is long enough and the company sufficiently charming.

But 4,000! That is preposterous, inhuman, incredible. The lady with the neo-classic name missed her vocation. She should give up psychology and join forces in promoting a Madcap Marathon.

BILL AND HIS SUCCESSORS

When Shakespeare, seeking fame and pelf
Penned plays of love, or hate, or glory
And could not find a plot himself
He stole one from some classic story.
His colleagues kicked up quite a fuss,
Said they: "This fraud, by praises swollen,
Has had the nerve to steal from us
The plots that we ourselves have stolen.
A theft which is the more accursed
Because we had employed it first."

But Shakespeare had no time to seek
In tattered tomes of ancient writings
Or dig through literature antique
For themes to make his work exciting.
The tales he took from other men
He did not follow to the letter,
And when they left his facile pen
They were considerably better.
And though he made the playwrights sore
His audiences yelled for more.

Our dramatists are much the same,
The plots of yesterday they borrow
And gather in some trifling fame
By showing them to us tomorrow.
But one shrewd practice of the bard
Whose tricks of trade were wise and many.
These moderns seem to disregard—
They don't improve his dramas any—
And this is why they've not succeeded
In making the success that he did.

Dr. Frank Crane's
Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

CROSS-STREETS

"If you do not grasp opportunity you are lost," reads a big signboard in a new real estate development.
All wrong.
Opportunity is lost.
You are still there.
"The Road of Life" is a good figure of speech. "The Street of Life" is better.

A road may go on endlessly without a crossroad. A street has intersecting streets at frequent intervals.
As you go down the street of life you may pass by one corner where you should have turned. You may miss an opportunity. That does not mean that you must give up the idea of reaching the destination you had in mind.

If you have made a mistake or a blunder you may be held back, but you are not stopped.
There are other chances ahead.
What you amount to is judged by where you are at the end, not where you are now.

"God, Himself," said Dr. Johnson, "judges man only at the end."

If the first lost opportunity or mistake were the end, Lincoln would have been nothing higher than a country storekeeper, Napoleon a scribbler whose writings no one would buy, Samuel Johnson a schoolmaster without a school, Pasteur a painter of pictures that few people appreciated, John Keats a seller of plasters and pills for a grumbling apothecary, Frank W. Woolworth a failing salesman at eight dollars a week, John Barrymore an illustrator of newspaper editorials.

Because a past failure is only a failure and there are other opportunities ahead, nothing is too late until we die or give up.

Ahead lie others. They may take you by a longer, more round-about way, but they offer a chance of still arriving.
Everyone is blind, deaf and dumb to opportunity many times in his life.

The material effects of a failure are less serious than the moral ones. If you can keep from giving up the fight when you discover you have missed the road, the cross-streets will come to your assistance.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

CHAIN STORE FARMS

There is no magic formula that can bring adequate relief to the farmers or renaissance to the farms.

The farm is part of the whole complicated fabric of modern life and cannot be treated as if it were a thing apart.

The smallest farmer is involved, whether he realizes it or not, in the problems of the race between food supply and population growth, the race between imperialism and internationalism, the race between war and peace.

The farmer may succeed in getting "good" legislation on farm problems and then find that "bad" legislation in the fields of finance, industry, or of transportation has more than offset his gains from good farm legislation.

The farmer once again proves the unity of modern life, in which we must have sound statesmanship on all of our problems if we are to have satisfactory conditions in any of our departments of life.

This does not mean, of course, that the farmer must sit idly by until some Utopian future produces a super-statesman who will solve all of our vexatious problems at one stroke.

Meanwhile he must bring all available genius to bear upon his problem, and one interesting idea that is in the field is the "chain store" idea applied to farming.

Farming is, after all, a business, and the better business methods employed the better results achieved.

We shall see more and more instances of great businessmen-farmers assembling under their control twenty-five or fifty farms, putting these farms into the hands of able tenants or lieutenants who will conduct these farms, under centralized business control, on a basis of profit sharing.

The "chain store" principle applied to farming can insure to every farm in the chain the best of modern business methods, the latest guidance from the centers of agricultural research, and so on, in a way that the isolated farm could not manage.

And this idea does not necessarily mean a future given over to a generation of great landowners surrounded by landless peasant-tenants.

It is an idea that can be adopted by a federation of independent farm owners, just as in England and in the United States independent grocers are federating in the face of the challenge of the chain stores.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS

It is not possible to bring up a child by book or rule. No human being was ever small enough to fit inside a book. No matter how broad it be the child will spread out over its edge and in the most unexpected ways defy its definition and its law. That is the glory of being a human child. There are always the unexplored places, always the new route, always the venture.

Of course this venturing, exploring soul is a great trial to the neat-minded folk who hate to see any variation from what they have decided is the law. "I've fed him and washed him and dressed him for bed and it is time for his nap. Now why won't he go to sleep? He keeps insisting upon getting out of bed to reach for the curtain tassel. I've slapped his hand; I've shaken my head and said, "No, no," a hundred times. I've explained that it is time for his nap. But he simply refuses to hear me and reaches for the tassel."

Then why not let him handle the tassel? Why not let him feel it, smell it, taste it (as he most certainly will try to do), and be done with it? His curiosity, the hunger of his mind, needs to be fed if he is to grow in mental power. The fact that his hunger rose at sight of the tassel precisely at nap time need not interfere with his investigation. His growth comes first and the schedule afterward.

"Try as hard as I can I cannot get this child to enjoy his spinach. I strain it, sprinkle it with lemon juice, crown it with egg crumbs, hide it in a sandwich and he still refuses to like spinach."

Well, what of it? Isn't it possible to rear a child without his eating spinach until he turns green at the sight of it? How would you like to eat the same dish today and tomorrow and for endless tomorrows? And maybe he doesn't like spinach at all. That is possible. Why not try him on wilted lettuce? Why not try baby carrots? Vary the spinach idea. He will live and thrive if he never sees spinach again.

When an earnest child specialist tries to tell mothers how to feed their children, they cannot say, "and serve spinach—except when the child has had too much of it, or when he has no appetite for food of any kind, being surfeited, or when spinach disagrees with him, or when he dislikes it so much that it upsets his digestion to even see it." There is neither space nor time. And it is not wise to send out negative instruction. It must be as positive as may be. If a school teacher believes that any schedule will precisely fit all children all the time.
